

Wellesley Class of 1973

Greetings, all!

I've run out of fodder for our upcoming class notes, due May 1. March is nearly gone, so please send me your thoughts, news, and ideas as soon as you can. Given the magazine's tight word count, I can tell you that those who keep it brief -- from 50-70 words -- have a good chance of getting everything into print. Precedence goes to contributors who haven't been heard from recently, and top billing tends to go to people who confess they haven't contributed ever. We're about a year away from our 45th reunion, so let's connect!

Happy spring,
Paula

Every woman can—and should—make a meaningful contribution to her world. There is a growing recognition that women's empowerment and leadership are crucial to their own advancement, and to worldwide societal change. Wellesley and its alumnae have supported and championed women's intellectual and social development and autonomy for over 100 years.
