Given the current situation that we are all navigating, the college search process will look a little different this spring. While many campuses are closed, colleges have adjusted their process to assist prospective students in the college search process. Colleges are now offering virtual tours, information sessions, and webinars to assist students in their search. This offers our students the unique opportunity to “visit” many colleges from their own homes (even University of Hawaii!). In addition, many admission and financial aid offices are welcoming questions via email. We encourage all our students to explore Naviance and individual college websites to assist them, as they embark on their new “virtual” college search process.

You can also visit NACAC College Admission Search to get additional admissions information.

Things to remember:

- Admissions requirements MAY change. Please visit individual college websites and understand that this is a continuing discussion and may change over the course of the next few weeks/months.
- Colleges recognize that the majority of schools are closed across the nation and grading profiles and structures may look different. Colleges will modify how they review applications accordingly.
- Due to SAT and ACT test date cancelations, colleges and NCAA are in the process of individually reviewing how they are going to adjust their admissions/eligibility criteria. Some schools are changing to a “test optional” criteria, that allows students to apply without SAT/ACT scores included. Please visit individual college websites and NCAA.org for the most accurate and up to date information.
- The SAT and ACT are offered in the summer & fall for students who have not taken the exams and are looking for future opportunities to do so. Please visit www.collegeboard.org and www.actstudent.org for registration dates and information.

Please reach out if you have questions or need support with this process.
