MILLFIELD VALUES EDUCATION PROGRAMME

We launched our values last term, after six months of work with all areas of the Millfield Community.

Our values should inform all our actions as a learning community, and they should provide a road map for further developments at the School.

This period of remote learning has been an excellent test of whether we were accurate in our identification of the School's values and my sense, so far, is that we were absolutely spot on.

This document is to inform discussion at home, and with group tutors, housemasters and housemistresses at school. It is clear from this, the importance that Millfield places on a holistic education and also the fact that there is a tremendous need, always, for diversity and balance and that that need has never been greater than now.

We are here to support students and to support their parents and that is what we want to do. The opportunities for you to engage with these programmes run throughout the School week and throughout holiday times as well. I anticipate that you will want an opportunity to read this in detail before beginning further discussions with your group tutor about how you can be involved in all areas of our Values Education Programme.
