Airing on FOX 26-My20 on Thursdays at Noon (CST)

Interactive writing lessons from iWRITE Founder & Children’s Author Melissa Williams Murphy on CH 20

Houston, TX - April 14, 2020 —The iWRITE Nonprofit Organization is collaborating with FOX 26 and My20 on the Classes at Home Initiative to provide fun educational television programming for Houston-area children every Thursday at 12 noon (CST). The interactive series hosted by iWRITE’s own founder and children’s author, Melissa Williams Murphy, will kick off on Thursday, April 16th. The program will feature creative writing lessons, how-to draw demonstrations, readings from local authors, iWRITE students, and cameos from the organization’s mascot, “i” The Guy. This innovative initiative aims to assist educators and nonprofits like iWRITE in reaching every student in the Houston area, including those that may not have access to the internet and the latest technology.

“Our organization strives to support students of all backgrounds and help them grow their confidence through writing,” said Melissa Williams Murphy, iWRITE founder and children’s author. “We’re proud to partner with FOX 26 and My20 to engage with students inside their own homes. iWRITE Classes at Home will spark inspiration, practice critical thinking, and help students avoid major learning loss through entertaining lessons designed for students to watch and learn independently.”

Viewers are encouraged to have a pencil and paper ready to participate in each episode's lesson. The activities and other resources shared will be made available on the nonprofit's website. Students have the opportunity share their writing and connect with iWRITE online through Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram (#iWRITEathome).
