

THE CLASS OF 1960

For all of the seniors, Summit represents many years of opportunity for mental, physical, and social maturity. Though we have not always fully appreciated Summits worth, when looking back, we have nothing but admiration and gratefulness for it. We have gone through a long process of growth and development from the time we were in the first grade, just learning to read and write, until we became seniors and were able to undertake the leadership of the student body. Though the years will pass and our memories of Summit become dim, the qualities instilled in us here will remain.

SENIOR MARSHALL

The Senior Marshall holds the highest undergraduate position in the graduation ceremonies. The Senior Class chose Cathie for this high honor because we feel she is entirely worthy of it. She is admired, liked, and respected by the senior class. She is known for her unfailing enthusiasm and spirit. She is always willing to accept any job and to carry it out cheerfully and efficiently. As a representative of Summit, she always gives a good impression because she is friendly, sincere, and courteous.

SCHOOL FLAGBEARER

The girl whom we have chosen for the honor of School Flagbearer is one who has contributed much in both academic work and extracurricular activities. Mary is active in the Student's Association and shows a great deal of school spirit and pride. She has always kept an unfailingly high standard for herself and for Summit. By carrying through her offices, however large or small, she has served the best interests of the school. Mary is considered by all a valuable member of the student body.

U N FLAGBEARER

The spirit of cooperation on which the United Nations was founded is displayed in the United Nations Flagbearer as well. For everywhere in the school and community Lynn's spirit of willingness and dependability set her apart. She cheerfully takes on any job given to her no matter how distasteful it is or how little recognition she will receive for it. Not only is she a responsible leader, but also she is a conscientious follower as well. Above all, Lynn is the one to whom we can point with pride and say, "She is a Summit girl."
