White Fragility : Why It's So Hard For White People To Talk About Racism by Robin DiAngelo.

Explore the counterproductive reactions white people have when discussing racism that serve to protect their positions and maintain racial inequality.

What Truth Sounds Like : Robert F. Kennedy, James Baldwin, And Our Unfinished Conversation About Race In America by Michael Eric Dyson.

In 1963 Attorney General Robert Kennedy sought out James Baldwin to explain the rage that threatened to engulf black America. Baldwin brought along. Kennedy walked away from the nearly three-hour meeting with Baldwin, playwright Lorraine Hansberry, psychologist Kenneth Clark, and activist Jerome Smith angry that the black folk assembled didn't understand politics, that they weren't as easy to talk to as Martin Luther King, that they were more interested in witness than policy. Every big argument about race that persists to this day got a hearing in that room. Dyson believes we need a return to that discussion, talking across the chasm of color, with hope as our guide.

How We Fight White Supremacy : A Field Guide To Black Resistance edited by Akiba Solomon and Kenrya Rankin.

This celebration of Black resistance, from protests to art to sermons to joy, offers a blueprint for the fight for freedom and justice -- and ideas for how each of us can contribute.

The Fire This Time : A New Generation Speaks About Race edited by Jesmyn Ward.

A collection of essays addressing the history and predicament of race in an attempt to envision a better future.

RACECRAFT
The Soul of Inequality in American Life
KAREN E. FIELDS AND BARBARA J. FIELDS

Racecraft : The Soul Of Inequality In American Life by Karen E. Fields and Barbara J. Fields.

So pervasive is racism in American history, economic doctrine, politics, and everyday thinking that the presence of race itself goes unnoticed. That the promised post-racial age has not dawned, the authors argue, reflects the failure of Americans to develop a legitimate language for thinking about and discussing inequality.
