"See" A Performance!!

Let's travel back to New York City to Lincoln Center! This time it is not just the Metropolitan Opera, but the whole Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. Click on the link and you will find Lincoln Center at Home. <http://lincolncenter.org/lincoln-center-at-home/on-demand>

About Lincoln Center at Home While practicing social distancing, you can still maintain your vital connection to the live performing arts at Lincoln Center. On Lincoln Center at Home, we will host daily pop-up classrooms for families and regularly update videos of performances—archival, home-made, documentary, or previously broadcast—by our organizations across the campus. Lincoln Center world-class artists, on your screens at home.

In these times of heightened anxiety and vigilance, we are holding on to the important role the arts play in our lives: they nourish our hearts and minds, teach us valuable lessons and critical skills, and help us create community. We are resolved not to lose sight of what connects us and we hope you will follow us on social media and continue to be part of our community from wherever you are.
