

Summer Learning Activity: Social Studies

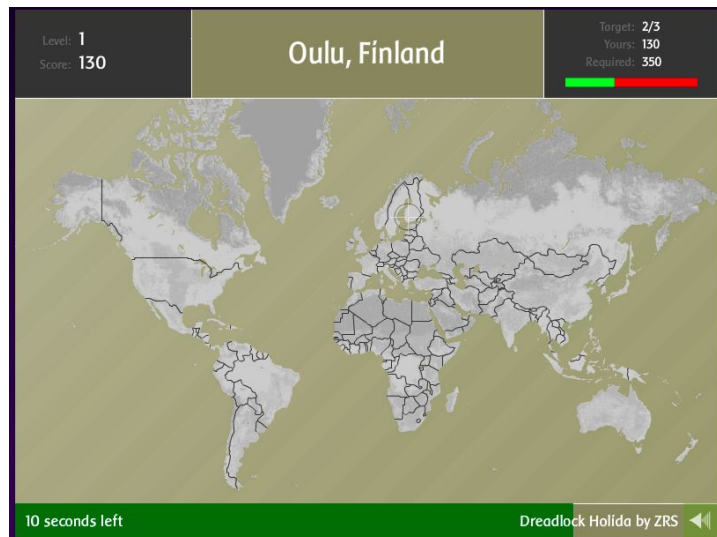

Your summer activity for Social Studies is a fun computer game you can play for free called “Traveler IQ Challenge”. It starts pretty easy, but gets really hard after a few levels!

Instructions:

1. Go here:
<https://www.crazygames.com/game/traveler-iq-challenge>
 - a. You might have to install, update or allow Flash on your browser.

2. Press start.
3. Start playing. The game tells you a city and country, and you have to click on where you think it is on the map.
 - a. Tip: if you don't know where the city is, just click on the middle of the country.
 - b. If you don't know where the country is, learn!

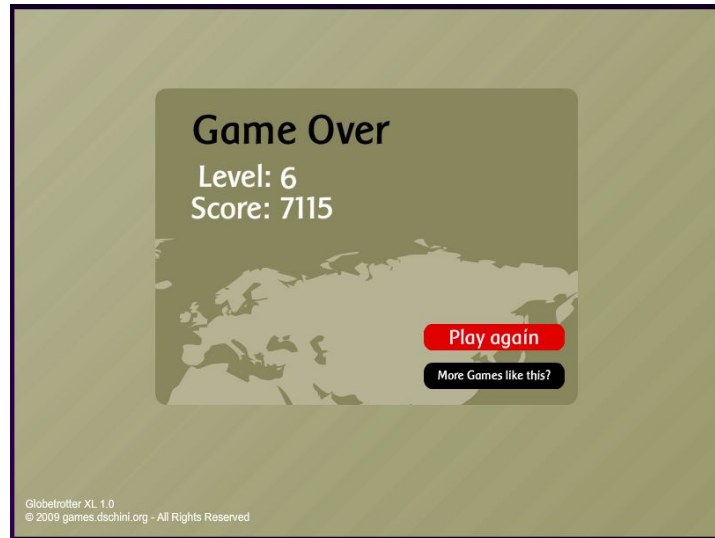

- 4. You get points based on how close you were to the city (with a bonus for time).
 - a. Make sure to look at where the city actually was so you can improve for next time. The game does repeat cities.

- 5. Go through as many levels as you can. They get harder!
After Level 7, there aren't any borders on the map.

6. When you finally lose, take a screenshot of your score!
7. Send a screenshot of your best score (at least level 5) to Ms. Evans. The top scores for grades 6, 7, and 8 will get a surprise when we return to school!

8. Think you can beat Ms. Evans? This is her top score.
