

6th Grade News

June 12, 2020

It's the final count down. . .we can't believe it! Three months ago, we were in our classrooms, with our students, looking forward to a long weekend and upcoming end of the 3rd quarter. Who knew this was how we would be ending the year? Well, it's not over yet!

Tomorrow, June 12th, is the last day in which new work will be assigned. After that, it's time to finish both new assignments and any outstanding assignments. We'd like to also remind those students who have been keeping up with their schoolwork, the year's not over for you either. In addition to catching up, we have special activities planned to close out a very memorable and interesting school year. Check out the events listed below!

Sixth Grade Teachers will be showcasing their talents, through fun meets – dates and times will also be posted in Google Classroom.

ABOUT Report Cards: Both Thursday (06/25) and Friday (06/26) are half-days, with the 26th being the last day of school. On that day, report cards will be posted for online viewing.

We understand and agree that remote learning has been a challenge for all of us. Throughout this very unexpected time frame, teachers have been reaching out to students with offers of assistance and technical support. Many students appeared to be quite comfortable, while others struggled. Report cards will indicate the level of success achieved by students. If your child has genuinely struggled with remote learning, we urge you to reach out to us for support.

As indicated on the calendar, we have each scheduled office hours – a time when we will be online and "waiting" for students to jump onto Google Calendar to discuss assignments and ask questions. If your child prefers to meet with a teacher privately, he/she should email that subject-area teacher to set up an appointment.

Ms. Mayone-Allison and Mrs. Countryman will provide READING support. Ms. Bruck will provide WRITING support. Mr. LaMonda and Mr. Downs will both assist with MATH. Mrs. Kuhne and Ms. Mastrangelo will assist students in completing assignments in any/all subject areas. Please take advantage of this final opportunity to complete assignments with continued support.
