

Draw a half self-portrait!

Take a photo of your child and print it out A4 size. Cut it in half and glue it onto drawing paper.

At first, it can be a challenge and your kid might automatically start to draw what she or he would usually draw, but with more practice, your kid will learn to look more closely and draw what he or she really see!

Once your kid is happy with her or his initial pencil drawing, she or he can go over the lines with a black marker pen and finish off by adding color with pencil crayons.
