Note: Items are included on this assessment in similar proportion to the state test blueprint at the strand level. Content may vary from the state test at levels finer than the strand (e.g., grade level expectation). Inferences from test results should be limited to the strand, and not lower levels. Also, the reported results for strands measured with fewer items are less reliable than for strands measured with more items. Thus, when small numbers of items are used to measure a strand, other measures (e.g., observations, homework, etc.) should be used to confirm the results reported here.
Acuity then allows the teacher to assign those students listed with additional instruction for the standard that those students performed poorly on.
