أَقْرِأُ الْكَلِمَاتِ، ثُمَّ ضُعْدَايْرَةً حَوْلَ حَرْفِ (ثُ ) ثُمَّ لَوْنَهُ :

A stylized illustration of a traditional Cambodian garment, likely a Krama or Dab, featuring intricate knotting patterns and decorative elements.

A black and white line drawing of a stylized, abstract figure or object, possibly a piece of art or a logo, featuring flowing lines and circular elements.

A simple line drawing of a hand holding a small, irregularly shaped object. The hand is shown from the side, with the fingers curled around the item. The object has a flat top and a rounded bottom.

The image displays a decorative piece of Arabic calligraphy. The word "فاطمة" (Fatima) is written in a flowing, cursive style. The letters are formed by thick black outlines. The first letter, ف (Fath), has a small loop above it. The second letter, ا (Alef), has a small loop below it. The third letter, ت (Taa'), has a small loop above it. The fourth letter, م (Meem), has a small loop below it. The fifth letter, ا (Alef), has a small loop below it. The sixth letter, ت (Taa'), has a small loop above it.

A black and white line drawing of a stylized, abstract organic shape. The main body is a thick, wavy line forming a large loop. A smaller, separate loop is attached to the main body. Above the main body, there are several smaller, irregular shapes, possibly representing leaves or petals.
