Congratulations to Sara McSweeney and Julia Kindler, who placed 3rd in their respective categories in the Virtual Junior Science and Humanities Symposium State Speaker Competition. This is the highest recognition that any HHS student has achieved in this competition.

JSHS is designed to challenge and engage students in grades 9-12 in science, technology, engineering or mathematics (STEM). Individual students compete for scholarships and recognition by presenting the results of their original research efforts before a panel of judges and an audience of their peers. Sara and Julia presented a power point of their research and then responded to questions from judges who were experts in the field.

Earlier this spring, sixteen Harrison High School students attended the Westchester-Rockland Junior Science and Humanities Symposium. The WR-JSHS is a sub-regional qualifying event for the Upstate JSHS in Albany. At the regional and national levels, JSHS provides high school students an opportunity to present authentic research before peers and professionals in the field.
Fifty-four students in grades 6-8 participated in the 7th Annual LMK Science & Engineering Fair. Students presented findings of science experiments and engineering designs which the developed and conducted independently using the Scientific Method or Engineering Design Cycle. Students applied learning through inquiry, which is an integral part of student learning in the IB Middle Years Program. HHS & LMK Students Perform Virtual One Act Plays

The One Act Festival preserved its special place for Harrison theater students in grades 8-12, despite not being able to take the stage and perform in front of the live audience. Student creativity peaked on the virtual stage and their efforts were engaging, thoughtful and entertaining in spite of the challenges they faced. According to theater teacher Nina Haberli, like Shakespeare who wrote King Lear during the plague, Harrison students wrote original, amazing Zoom plays during a pandemic and enthusiastically embraced a new genre and expression of art. They learned to create, collaborate and perform virtually.

Students Stage Virtual Performance of You Can’t Take It With You

The HHS spring play began like other spring plays. Student director, Michael Jubak held auditions, selected a cast, and started rehearsals. Then, suddenly, we were quarantined. But that did not stop the cast of this year’s spring play, You Can’t Take It With You. Michael held rehearsals over Zoom, hoping to return to school. When it became clear that was not going to happen, Michael adapted and made plans to film the actors on Zoom. At times, wifi issues presented difficulties, so some actors self-taped their lines on phones. After many days of editing, Michael and the cast presented a wonderful and unique performance of You Can’t Take It With You. Learn about the cast and crew in the show’s program and take time to read Michael Jubak’s thoughtful reflections of his HHS theater experience in the Director’s Statement. Bravo!
