

Attention Industry Professionals and Community Members,

Our STEM Program at Olentangy Academy invites you and your companies or higher education institutions to become part of our students' learning experiences at the academy.

- Are you a professional in science, technology, engineering, and/or math or in a related field who could donate your time and talent to our students? We would love to host you in our building!
- Does your company offer products or services that may benefit from young and innovative thinkers to perhaps help to formulate a solution through our engineer design process for solving problems? We welcome the opportunity to help!
- Do you have fundraising skills that may be useful to the academy? Please share them with us as we are always looking for ways to purchase education tools from the ever-changing world of technology.

Thanks for considering our students.
