Robotics Training from Carnegie Mellon Robotics Academy

Grade 4/5

This is a curriculum module designed to teach core computer programming logic and reasoning skills using a robotics engineering context. It starts off with first level with a sequence of challenges organized around key robotics and programming concepts. It provides a structured sequence of programming activities in real-world project-based contexts. The projects are designed to get students thinking about the patterns and structure of not just robotics, but also programming and problem-solving more generally. Students learn to design, program and control fully-functional models and robots that carry out life-like automated tasks. This platform provides the ideal technology to teach Computer Science, Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics.
