Roosevelt Curriculum Learning Principles

1. Students learn best when they can apply or connect their learning.
2. Learning happens for individuals in different ways and at different times.
3. Learning occurs best when students get clear, timely feedback as well as opportunities to apply that feedback.
4. Learning is enriched by multiple opportunities to practice in a supportive environment.
5. Emotional well-being influences educational performance, learning and development.
6. Learning includes active creation, integration and application, not just passive consumption.
7. Effective classroom management is based on setting and communicating high expectations, nurturing positive relationships and providing a high level of student support.
8. Learning happens best in an atmosphere of high expectations.
