CHAPTER V

ABOUT THE ORGANIZATION

5.1. ACADEMIC

5.1.1. Planning

At the end of the School year, the Superintendent, the Peruvian Director, the Principal of each school division, hierarchical staff, faculty and specialists, and other relevant instructional support staff, engage in the planning and organization of the activities for the next school year, considering among other factors, the current situation in the country, which may impact on the modalities of educational service provision, in accordance with the provisions of the Ministry of Education, as well as the competent authorities in the matter.

The Annual Work Plan, is developed, implemented and evaluated by: Leadership Team, committees formed by teachers, curriculum directors, Guidance and Counseling, Sports/Arts and extracurricular activities.

While preparing the Annual Work Plan, the following will be taken into consideration:

- a) Legal basis herein described;
- b) Diagnosis and alternative solutions;
- c) General and specific objectives;
- d) Educational aspects;
- e) Teaching modalities (distance or face-to-face, or others provided by the Ministry of Education and the competent government authorities).
- f) Professional development, actualization and/or staff implementation;
- g) Teacher Performance Evaluation;
- h) Personal development;
- i) Civic Calendar;
- j) Curricular and extracurricular activities;
- k) Recovery Plans informed to parents and presented to the Ministry of Education, in accordance with the regulations on the matter.

The Annual Work Plan is brought before the Leadership Team and the corresponding committees, hierarchical staff, teachers and specialists of the School, the first week of July, whose observations and/or modifications, are addressed by the School Board. The Annual Work Plan is approved through a decree issued by the Peruvian Director.

The School Board will budget for the Annual Work Plan, immediately after any observations and modifications have been made and incorporated.

The members of each School division are responsible for the evaluation of the Annual Work Plan.

The School Board will monitor the ongoing progress of the Annual Work Plan, making any necessary adjustments and informing the Leadership Team of any changes.

5.1.2. Curriculum - Curricular Program and Structure

The School elaborates the curriculum so that fits its educational offering at each level; Early Childhood, Elementary, Middle and High School.

The Leadership Team/School Board assumes the curricular diversification responsibility according to the DCN (National Peruvian Curriculum for Regular Basic Education and the IBO (International Baccalaureate Organization) curriculum.

The structure and curricular programs of each area are planned and elaborated by specialized teacher teams under the direction of the consultants, curriculum coordinators and supervision of the School Principals.

The working teams develop the curricular map for the FDR Curriculum from Early Childhood to Grade 12.

The teams will work and finish what is stipulated in the previous sections by the first half of July and will present it to the Principals of the School divisions for approval.

Educational delivery of the curriculum in the Covid-19 state of health emergency cannot take the same form as regular periods since the particular situation is unforeseen and, therefore, the educational response is special. It is not intended to reproduce the modes of face-to-face educational work.

In the framework of the Covid-19 health emergency, the curriculum will be planned considering that there will be face-to-face weeks and others of distance learning, whose number is not completely certain. For this reason, activities that require greater intensity of attendance and those that will be supportive will be organized so that, in coordination with families, they can work from home. It is very possible that during the year it will be necessary to alternate the face-to-face and distance modality, so the adjustments will be planned to give continuity.

According to our Learning Standards that inform our curriculum:

Learning happens for individuals in different ways and at different times

In the framework of the health emergency, this principle is understood so that competencies can be further developed throughout the school year for those students for whom they have not consolidated.

Classroom educational services depend on the evolution of the pandemic and of the measures that are taken to counteract. By resuming face-to-face educational attention, the distance modality could be kept in a complementary way and teachers continue to monitor and provide feedback to their students.

5.1.3. School Calendar

The School Academic Year is programmed in two academic semesters. The school year starts the first week of August of the calendar year and ends at the end of June of the following calendar year.

In order to assess the achievement of the Mission and educational offering of the School, several standardized and non-standardized assessment tools, both internal and external, international and local, are used. These are programmed and applied at the different grade levels. The results are shared with the Leadership Team.

The Teacher Performance supervision and evaluation process takes into consideration all phases or stages of the educational work from the planning until the summative or final evaluation, as well as the visual and effective elements of the educational activity, such as professional development, integration of technology, etc.

6.3. ABOUT STUDENT EVALUATION, PROCEDURES AND INSTRUMENTS

The evaluation, promotion and the issuance of certificates to the students at the School is supported by the regulations contained in this document and the directives and specific norms that are issued by the Ministry of Education and its specialized agencies.

The evaluation is integral, permanent, and flexible and criterion referenced. The evaluation does not consist only of annual written tests, bimonthly exams or final exams, but is assessed in a holistic manner throughout the school year.

The competency of the students is evaluated through several instruments or techniques and considers the evaluation of the student's behavior in order to improve the coexistence attitudes of the student.

The assessment policy keeps coherence with the educational level being evaluated as well as the norms established for that purpose.

6.3.1. Evaluation Objectives

Evaluation objectives are:

- a) The evaluation is carried out placing the students in the center of the process and, therefore, contributes to their welfare by reinforcing their self-esteem, helping them to consolidate a positive image of themselves and confidence in their possibilities; ultimately motivating them to keep learning.
- b) Promote the formative nature of the evaluation process that fosters student self-management, evaluation and reflection on their own learning, strengthening and developing their autonomy and promotes teacher reflection on their pedagogical practice to improve the teaching-learning process.
- c) Provide guidance for feedback from the collection and assessment of evidence of learning, registration and use of information on the progress of student learning.
- d) Establish the conditions for the promotion, permanence and pedagogical recovery and certification of student learning, as well as the procedures for validation, revalidation and placement exam.
- e) Be aware of students' achievements and obtain information about the influential elements in the teaching-learning process, in order to adopt the necessary measures to achieve the objectives of the educational work.
- f) Through the assessment for learning, for formative purposes, the students are asked to review the feedback and to reflect on their learning process, recognize their strengths, difficulties and needs and, consequently, manage their learning autonomously. Given its formative purpose, everything that allows feedback on the development of the competency is constantly evaluated: resources, a combination of these, a capacity and a competency.

In addition, the teacher is able to obtain useful information to improve their teaching processes.

- g) Through the evaluation of learning, with a summative purpose, the level of achievement that a student has reached in the standards up to a specific moment is determined and in accordance with what is established by the teacher or classroom teacher according to the student's learning needs.

6.3.2. Purpose and Characteristics of Formative Evaluation of the Learning Processes

- a) Contribute to the integral development of the student and the continuous improvement of the teaching-learning process. It is formative in nature because it directly affects the improvement of learning. This is observed when the students reflect on their learning process and their results, recognize their strengths, difficulties and needs, taking on new challenges.
- b) The evaluation is a permanent and systematic process through which information is collected and processed in a methodical and rigorous way in order to know, analyze and assess the learning and based on them make decisions in a timely and pertinent way to feed back the learning of the students and the pedagogical practice of the teacher.
- c) The evaluation also allows assessing the level of achievement achieved by the student during the process and at the end of a school period, grade or cycle and certify what has been learned throughout the school career.
- d) The approach used for the competency-based assessment is always formative, whether the end is the evaluation for learning or if it is the evaluation of learning. Both purposes are relevant and form an integral part of the planning of the various learning experiences aimed at developing competencies. Therefore, they must be integrated into these experiences and aligned with the learning purposes.
- e) The evaluation is carried out based on criteria that allow contrasting and evaluating the level of the development of competencies that the student reaches when facing a situation or problem in a given context. This allows to obtain information both for feedback during the learning process and to determine the level of achievement at a specific moment.

6.3.3. Evaluation Criteria

- a) They are the benchmarks or central aspects of the competency that allow observing and evaluating the progress of student learning. These criteria are the standards of learning, performance and skills.
- b) They allow the design of procedures and instruments (checklists, monitoring tool for child development and learning, rubrics or others to evaluate the development of competency when facing a challenge).

- c) The learning standards describe the development of student competencies, at levels of increasing complexity in a holistic way and are defined from the combination of the competency capacities that together and in progression constitute the criteria to be observed.
- d) From the learning standards, the performances are generated, which are specific descriptions that help to identify if a student is in process or has reached the expected level of proficiency/competency. These performances are flexible as they adapt to a diversity of situations or contexts.
- e) In the case of Learning Support (LS) students, teachers make an assessment based on the curricular adaptations made.
- f) In the case of hospitalized students and outpatient treatment for prolonged periods, their health condition and the level of involvement for their educational processes will be considered.
- g) For both evaluation purposes - formative or summative - the criteria are developed based on the standards and their performance, which must include all the capabilities of the competency and must be adjusted to the situation or problem to be faced. They are aligned with each other and describe the corresponding action.
- h) It is required to encourage students, in a gradual process of autonomy in the management of their learning, to be able to contribute to the formulation of the criteria, thus guaranteeing that they are fully understood by them. In any case, it is essential that the formulation of the criteria is clear and understood by the students.

6.3.4. Evaluation of the Learning-Teaching Process

- a) Assessment is an intrinsic process to teaching-learning.
- b) The learning assessment process aims to continually improve the learning processes and the development of competencies through feedback and, at the same time, the continuous improvement of teaching processes through reflection.
- c) The information collected and analyzed is used to plan according to the needs and potential of unidentified learning.
- d) The evaluation for learning involves structuring a process that considers the information received about the level of competencies development and includes an evaluation that allows knowing the characteristics and learning needs of each student, as well as obtaining information about their learning interests and preferences.
- e) Provide feedback, accompany and offer differentiated attention to students, and assess their achievements during and at the end of a learning period.

From 2020, from the Early Childhood program to the first grade of Secondary Education (Grade 7,) of Regular Basic Education for all the cycles, the rating scale used for the OPP (Official Peruvian Program), will be used as detailed:

- f) To determine the annual qualification or teaching period of a curricular area, the teacher must assess the level of achievement in the set of competencies associated with the area.
- g) The annual qualification of the curricular area is not an average of the competencies; it is a conclusion that results from the overall analysis of such levels of achievement.
- In this process, the teacher must consider the student's progress throughout the teaching period, the priorities established in the learning purposes, the conditions and characteristics of the students and the modality, among others.
- h) In the case of the evaluation of the levels of achievement in the curricular area using the literal scale, coherence will be kept between the final qualification of the competencies and the qualification that summarizes the level reached in the area:
- The level of achievement of the area cannot be higher than the level of achievement obtained in the competencies;
 - When all the competencies involved have a level of achievement "Starting/Satisfactory" (C), a different level of achievement cannot be obtained; when all or most of the competencies involved have the "Outstanding" (AD) level of achievement, a different level of achievement could not be obtained.
- i) At the Early Childhood level (EC 3 to Kindergarten), the annual qualifications and descriptive conclusions, will be recorded for each competency developed, when deemed necessary.

6.4. GRADING SCALE AND EQUIVALENCY IN THE US PROGRAM

Grading scale equivalence between the Official Peruvian Program (OPP) and US Program is consistent with the educational level required as well as with the rules established for that purpose:

a) Elementary School (Grade 1 - Grade 5)

US Program*	Peruvian Program	Descriptor
4	AD	Outstanding/Excellent achievement When the student shows a higher level than expected with respect to the competency. This means student learning goes beyond what expected.
3	A	Very good/Achievement expected When the student shows the expected level regarding the competency, demonstrating satisfactory management in all the proposed tasks and the scheduled time.
2	B	Good/In process When the student is near to or close to the expected level regarding the competency, which requires accompaniment for a reasonable time to achieve it.

1	C	Starting/Satisfactory When the student shows minimal progress in a competency according to the expected level. Frequently evidences difficulties in the development of tasks. The student needs more time for accompaniment and teacher intervention.
---	---	---

b) In High School (Grade 6 - Grade 12)

US Program*	Peruvian Program	Descriptor
7	AD	Excellent/Outstanding achievement When the student shows a higher level than expected with respect to the competency. This means student learning goes beyond what expected.
5-6	A	Very Good/Achievement expected When the student shows the expected level regarding the competency, demonstrating satisfactory management in all the proposed tasks and the scheduled time.
3-4	B	Good/In progress When the student is near to or close to the expected level regarding the competency, which requires accompaniment for a reasonable time to achieve it.
1 - 2	C	Starting/Satisfactory When the student shows minimal progress in a competency according to the expected level. Frequently evidences difficulties in the development of tasks, so it needs more time for accompaniment and teacher intervention.

6.4.1. Descriptive Conclusions

Descriptive conclusions provide valuable information to students and their families about the progress, difficulties and opportunities for improvement that are required in the process of developing competencies. Therefore, at the end of each period, the following will be reported on each student and for each competency:

- a) Early Childhood School (EC-K) The level of achievement achieved for each developed competency and the descriptive conclusions will be recorded when the student has reached the level of achievement C(1). In the case of the developed competencies of the period that have reached other achievement levels such as B(2), A(3) or AD(4), the teacher will record descriptive conclusions when he/she considers it appropriate.

- b) Elementary, Middle and High School (ES, MS & HS) The level of achievement achieved will be recorded for each competency developed and the descriptive conclusions will be reported for each competency at achievement level C. (1 in the case of US Program Elementary Level), (1-2 in the case of US Program Middle and High School level). In the case of competencies that are at another level of achievement (B, A, AD), (2,3,4 US Elementary Program) and (7, 5- 6, 3-4, US Middle & High School Program), the teacher will record the descriptive conclusions when he/she considers it appropriate.
- c) In all cases, the descriptive conclusions must include personalized recommendations aimed at the development of each competency.
- d) In the case of hospitalized students or long-term outpatient treatment, the Progress Report will have the levels of achievement of the developed competencies and descriptive conclusions about their progress.

6.5. PROMOTION AND REPETITION

6.5.1. About the Conditions to Determine the Situation of Promotion, Permanence or Teaching Remedial Program

At the end of an academic year period, students can achieve any of the following:

- Be promoted to next grade level or age group.
- Require a remedial program.
- Remain in their current grade level.

Promoted to next grade level or age group. If the student reached the established conditions to go to the next higher grade or age group.

The students in the Early Childhood Program, exceptionally and in a single opportunity, may remain up to one year above their chronological age established on March 31 of the corresponding school year.

The permanence of students with Special Education Needs at the School (Elementary, MS and HS); extends up to a maximum of two years above the corresponding normative age during their school years.

Additional competencies organized in curricular areas and workshops will be considered for the purposes of promotion, recovery and permanence.

In cases when the number of competencies associated to an area is odd, the following will be considered: When a curricular area has 5 competencies, it is understood as "half", 3 competencies. If the area has 3 competencies, it is understood as "half", 2 competencies. In curricular areas with only one competency, this single competency will be considered.

Requires a remedial program when the student shows progress that still requires accompaniment to reach the expected level of achievement.

Remains in their current grade level: When the student did not meet the required conditions to be promoted or pass the remedial program.

6.5.5.3. Middle School and High School:

- a) In Middle School and High School, students who are promoted with B (3-4) in any competency should receive, in the following school period, more feedback on the planned learning experiences. The students that, at the beginning of the School year, have half or more of competencies in the achievement level C (1-2) in one area or workshop, will receive differentiated support in the grade learning experiences and in the framework of the teaching remedial program/ Remedial assessment, to overcome their difficulties and reach at least the achievement level B (3-4) in these competencies, until the end of the semester (December).

6.5.6. Grade Placement

This evaluation is used to determine the level of achievement of student's prior learning and to be able to place him/her in their corresponding grade level. This will allow enrollment of students who did not join the school system in a timely manner, who interrupted his studies for a school year or more, who withdraw due to a situation that made it impossible for him/her to end the school year, or who do not meet the necessary requirements for the validation or revalidation as could be the case of some foreign students with studies in other countries.

The placement for Elementary, Middle or High school students is made considering:

- a) An evaluation that considers the expected learning in the previous grade to which the enrollment corresponds, as indicated in the following table:

Relation of the Age and the Grade in which a Student will be placed; EBR modalities will apply:
Age proved as of March 31:	Registration Grade;
7 years old	Second grade / Elementary School
8 years old	Third grade / Elementary school
9 years old	Fourth grade / Elementary school
10 years old	Fifth grade / elementary school
11 years old	Sixth grade / Middle School
12 years old	Seventh Grade / Middle School (1st year of Secondary School)
13 years old	Eight Grade / Middle School (2nd

	year of Secondary School)
14 years old	Nine Grade /High School (3 rd year of Secondary School)
15 years old	Tenth Grade / High School (4 th year of Secondary School)
16 years old	Eleventh Grade /High School (5 th year of Secondary School)

b) The School will take into consideration the results of the placement assessment designed based on the expected achievements in the grade immediately prior to the placement, for each of the competencies of:

1. The Language Arts and Mathematics areas (when the placement grades are from Grade 2 to Grade 6);
2. From Grade 7 and above, all the competencies associated with the subject areas will be evaluated, this will be organized so that the student is not overloaded with isolated evaluations. In the case of foreign students, the evaluation will be carried out using general and/or global thematic learning. In addition, in the case that the placement is made from Grade 8 to Grade 11, the grades prior to said placement grade are evaluated and certified using the procedure of recognition of independent studies throughout the first school period.
3. Once the student corresponding grade has been established, considering both criteria (age and proof of placement), the Principal of the Division authorizes the enrollment.
4. Since these evaluations do not adequately establish the degree of development of the various competencies, during the first month after enrollment, the School will carry out the necessary processes to determine the accompaniment needs of the registered student.
5. In case of the Elementary School, Grades prior to the grade in which the student has been placed will not be assessed. In Grade 7 in MS and all Grades in HS, Grades prior to the grade in which the student has been placed will be assessed and certified using the procedure of recognition of independent studies throughout the first school period.
6. In the event that a student with Special Education Needs requests a placement test, the appropriate adjustments and adaptations must be made, for which the advice of the Learning Support team will be available.

6.5.7. Exceptional Cases

6.5.7.1. Advancement and Postponement of Evaluations

6.5.7.2. Exoneration of Competencies in the Physical Education Area

- a) The father or mother of the child, legal guardian must request the exemption; in writing to the Principal, at any time during the school period.
- b) The request is accepted when the reasons why the student is prevented from performing any physical activity are duly justified. It is temporary if the impediment can be overcome after a time; and partial if the student can continue developing learning that does not involve physical effort that puts his/her health at risk.
- c) The Principal authorizes the exemption of the competencies associated to the curricular areas.
- d) The teacher in charge of the Physical Education area has the responsibility of making the curricular adaptations that he/she may consider pertinent so that the student can develop the learning within his/her reach. Student will be evaluated based on these adaptations. This also applies for students with SEN associated to a physical handicap.

6.5.8. Validation and Revalidation/Homologation of Studies Abroad

The validation and revalidation (homologation) of studies abroad can be carried out at the School when enrollment is requested, or by the Ministry of Education, according to the decision of the parent or legal guardian.

This modality is applied and extends to external personnel but who maintain all the benefits of the law being on specific payrolls.
- Another type of contract modality used by the School is the Project Contract. This is used to determine if the project to be implemented gives positive results. At the end, it may be decided not to continue with this project following the labor guidelines. This contract can have a maximum of a one year term.

- As a training modality, the School has two types of pre-professional practices and professional practices. The first is used when the student, still studying, requires internships to finish his/her cycle or his university career. Professional practices are used to give the graduated students, after proof of graduation, an opportunity to exercise what they have learned during their university studies. Pre-professional practices can last for the duration of the student's university career, while the professional practices can only be for up to one year.
