Will remote learning be made available for students who are unable to attend in-person instruction?

The in-person student experience provides the strongest and richest learning environment at Delbarton. A distance learning protocol will be in place for those students who cannot return to campus by the first day of classes or who need to quarantine during the year.

All faculty will receive time and training for their lesson planning and practice for the possibility of both in-person and online learning contexts. Teachers have spent much time reflecting on the springtime experience and have defined strategies and practices that can improve the students' overall experience. They are dedicated to taking this time to hone the skills necessary for effective online education, to design courses that maximize rigor and engagement, and to train on appropriate technology to facilitate the above.
