To the Class of 2020,

You're among the millions of students across the country and world who will not be taking part in a "normal" graduation ceremony this year. I understand that on the surface, it may feel as if an important one of your stepping stones to adulthood has been taken away.

Life teaches us that challenges bring with them opportunities. You've learned this year what it takes some a lifetime to learn: much of the world is out of our control, and there is not much that is actually "normal." What you can control is yourself, and your response to the world around you. I've admired your individual and collective grace in navigating the unexpected.

The world is ever changing, and I am heartened that as you head into it, you're prepared to challenge what's "normal," to meet what life brings you with courage and integrity and empathy and love. Thank you for being a part of Georgetown Day School, thank you for making our community stronger, thank you for leading the way. Congratulations on your virtual graduation!

GRADUATION ADDRESS..... JENNIFER GRIFFIN

Jennifer Griffin joined Fox News Channel in July 1997 in Moscow and later served as Middle East correspondent in Jerusalem for seven years. Since 2007, she has served as National Security Correspondent, based at the Pentagon. She worked overseas as a foreign correspondent for 15 years, covering the rise of the Taliban, the transition from Boris Yeltsin to Vladimir Putin, the overthrow of Saddam Hussein, Yasser Arafat's funeral, and the evacuation of Jewish settlers from Gaza. She started her career reporting for The Sowetan newspaper in Johannesburg, South Africa, where she covered Nelson Mandela's release from prison and South Africa's transition away from apartheid. Prior to joining Fox, Griffin reported for NPR, VOA and U.S. News and World Report.

The mother of three children, Annalise '19, Amelia '20, and Luke Myre '27, she and her husband Greg Myre also authored This Burning Land: Lessons from the Frontlines of the Transformed Israeli-Palestinian Conflict.

A graduate of Harvard University '91-92, Griffin received a bachelor's degree in Government.
