MARKET RECAP - MAY 2020:

The month of May brought with it the first round of hard data reflecting the detrimental effects from a full month of the COVID-19 economic shutdown. And while we all understood the data would be horrible, the depth of the plunge is hard to fathom. Phrases such as the “steepest decline ever” and the “worst in history” will apply to almost every piece of April economic data. Employment data is the most obvious indicator of trouble. Since the shutdowns began, more than 40 million American have filed for unemployment benefits. Nonfarm payrolls fell by a stunning 20.5 million in April while the unemployment rate more than quadrupled from the 50-year low of 3.5% in February to 14.7%. The Bureau of Labor Statistics cautioned that the rate would have been nearly five percentage points higher if many workers had not erroneously classified themselves as “employed, but absent from work.” The number of Americans working part-time but preferring to work full-time nearly doubled to 10.9 million in April, driving the so-called underemployment rate up from 8.7% to 22.8%. Also known as the U6, this broader measure includes those part-timers preferring full-time work, as well as discouraged workers who are not currently looking but would accept a suitable job if available. Other key indicators paint a similar picture. The ISM manufacturing index slipped into mild contraction in March before plunging to a recessionary 41.5 reading in April. The ISM non-manufacturing (service sector) index collapsed from a 14-month high of 57.3 in February to 52.5 in March and to 41.8 in April. Headline retail sales dropped another -16.4% in April; the -23% collapse in just two months is almost double the drop in sales experienced during the entire Great Recession. First quarter GDP was revised lower from -4.8% to -5.0% while forecasts for second quarter GDP suggest economic growth could contract at a jaw-dropping -40% annualized rate. A rebound is expected in the third quarter but much will depend on the progression of the coronavirus and it will likely take several years for the economy to fully recover.

There was no major news from the Federal Reserve as they work to implement previously announced programs; however, Chair Powell did appear on CBS’s 60-Minutes where he encouraged Congress to “do more,” saying the Fed still has ample tools at its disposal, and doesn’t expect to take interest rates negative. He also said the Fed was not likely to raise rates until the virus threat has passed, inflation is nearing 2%, and the U.S. returns to “full employment.” Those are very high hurdles, likely years away.

Despite the abysmal economic statistics, financial markets stabilized as Fed actions to shore up liquidity and fiscal stimulus worked their magic. Equity markets rallied significantly during May with the DJIA and S&P 500 up better than +4% while the NASDAQ gained +6.7%, closing the month just 3% below its all-time high. Bond market volatility subsided and yields generally drifted lower. The two-year Treasury note opened the month at 0.20%, traded as low as 0.14%, and closed the month at 0.16%. The five-year T-note closed the month at an all-time low of 0.30% while the 10-year settled at 0.65%.

Note 1: CMT stands for Constant Maturity Treasury. This data is published in Federal Reserve Statistical Release H.15 and represents an average of all actively traded Treasury securities having that time remaining until maturity. This is a standard industry benchmark for Treasury securities. The CMT benchmarks are moving averages. The 3-month CMT is the daily average for the previous 3 months, the 6-month CMT is the daily average for the previous 6 months, and the 1-year and 2-year CMT's are the daily averages for the previous 12-months.

Note 2: Benchmark data for TexPool is the monthly average yield.
