Dear Alumni,

The start of the 2020-2021 school year has been unlike any school year we've experienced.

The elementary school welcomed students back to campus on August 10. The return was staggered, with half of the student body allowed on campus each day as they met in small groups. All of the students, faculty and staff are wearing face masks, social distancing is practiced, each student has their temperature checked, and hand washing stations can be readily found throughout the hallways. Middle and high schoolers are learning online, with the intention of returning to campus in September for a hybrid learning model that will be a blend of in-person and online learning.

In the midst of all these changes, there are some things that remain the same, including our commitment to share the love of Christ with each student and their family, while providing an excellent college-preparatory education. We also take great comfort in knowing that our God never changes - He is and always will be the same (Heb.13:8).

In this month's newsletter, we share how two high school students are sewing masks to benefit their fellow classmates and how you can help. Our alumni spotlight features the current HBA Alumni Association president, Christine Yamashita '05, and Angie (Lee) Kim '06 of Fabric Mart. The August issue of the Soaring Eagle will be in mail boxes shortly. If you would like a sneak peek, click here to view the online version. Mahalo for your continued prayers for protection over our school and greater community!

"Rejoice always, pray continually, give thanks in all circumstances; for this is God's will for you in Christ Jesus," 1 Thessalonians 5:16-18.

Aloha,

ALUMNI CHRONICLES: ANGIE LEE KIM '06

In March of 2020 we began to see long lines of socially distanced customers at fabric stores on Oahu. Most shoppers wanted a yard or so of cloth to make personal masks; others wanted much more fabric to sew masks to sell.
