August 28, 2020

Hello Parkland Families,

This is a reminder that all secondary student schedules will be posted at 5 PM today, Friday, August 28th. Students should log onto their Chromebooks, look inside each Schoology course (they will automatically have access to their courses at 5 PM), and find directions on how to connect with their teachers on Monday, August 31st, the first day of school, if they will be learning remotely on Monday.

Elementary students will have a structured daily learning schedule. At the secondary level, teachers have autonomy to create schedules that best allow students to learn course content since subjects vary widely. For all subjects, expectations will be shared by each of your child's teachers. Please allow time for our teachers and your students to settle into a routine over the next several weeks. Teaching in both a Hybrid and Online environment is new territory for our teachers and while they have been preparing for this new normal, they also need some time to settle in. Teachers will be learning what works best for their students and may adjust schedules accordingly. We are asking for your patience and understanding as we move forward together to give our students the best possible Parkland educational experience. We are all excited to start school on Monday and we ask you, as parents, to be partners in the mission to help your students achieve by staying engaged and communicating with your teacher immediately if you have concerns.

Enjoy this last weekend of summer vacation!
