Colleges and universities are not necessarily aligned their entrance requirements with Texas Education Agency's graduation mandates. Students and families are strongly encouraged to research the entrance requirements of each potential college and university of interest.

Don't Get Snuffed by taking too Much Fluff!

- · Take a well-rounded course of classes
- · Go the extra mile
- Take the most challenging courses you can in subject areas where you are confident.
- Don't give up your passions, but at the same time avoid fluff. If art is your passion, then take AP Art. If music is your passion, then take AP Music Theory.
- · Don't be afraid to challenge yourself!
- · Consider taking Dual credit next year
- · Consider taking AP courses

Did You Know?

- Most colleges recolculate your high school GPA.
- · Taking easy classes your senior year can do more harm than good.
- Many colleges require you to list your senior classes on your application.
- Changing or dropping some of the more rigorous courses listed on the original application can result in a college withdrawing their offer of admission.
- College admission officers pay close attention to your performance during senior year.
- Taking rigorous courses is vital for admittance to many Universities
- Your transcript is the most important part of the application at most colleges.

Take the more challenging road, but make sure you can manage it!

How to Request a Transcript

- Come to the Counseling Office with your ID. You will not be able to begin the process unless you have your current student ID or driver's license.
- Tell the front desk in the Counseling Office that you need to request a transcript(s).
- 3. You will be given a Transcript Request Form that you will need to complete at that time or bring back to the counseling office.
- 4. The information you provide on the request will let us know where you need the transcript(s) sent, or if you are requesting to pick up your transcript. It is a 48 hour process to request your transcript, so please plan accordingly and pay attention to any deadlines you are trying to make.
- 6. As a current student, you can request up to 10 free transcripts. After this, you will be charged $2 per transcripts. After you graduate, you will be charged $2 per transcript. You must pay the fee at the time of the request.
- It is your responsibility to come pick up the transcript(s) you have requested. If you asked for us to mail the transcript(s), then we mail your transcript(s) to the requested destination(s) - universities, scholarship organizations, etc.
- After graduation, two copies of your final transcript will be mailed to your home address. It will be your responsibility to mail your official high school transcript to the college or university you will be attending.
- 8. Those students who have attended a TCC class during their junior or senior year must request a transcript from TCC to be sent directly to the college or university where admission is being requested. This request cannot be made at your high school.

Be sure to apply to at least four colleges. Why Apply to 4 or More ?

It can save you money.

Every college offers different scholarships and financial aid packages that can help you pay for college. Apply to at least four colleges so that you can compare and determine which is the best option for you.

It increases your odds of getting in.

> If you apply to only one or two colleges, you risk not getting into either school. If you apply to at least four, you have a much better chance of being admitted.

A good fit makes a difference.

Students who apply to at least four colleges increase their chances of finding a good academic, social, and financial fit. And a good fit matters because it will influence your overall college experience.

Don't forget that the FAFSA opens Oct. 1. You'll need to complete this form to apply for financial aid.

College Matters — for Life

The College Board's mission is connecting students to college opportunity and success. This mission has driven the development of BigFutureTM, a free comprehensive website from the College Board that improves the college planning process for students, families, and educators.

A college education is the gateway to success in today's knowledge-based, global economy. It's an investment in each student's future.

- Individuals who have a college degree earn an average of $22,000 more per year than those with only a high school diploma.
- A college education gives a person more job security. People with a high school diploma are more than twice as likely to be unemployed.
- For most students who go to college, the increase in lifetime earnings far outweighs the cost of their education.
- College is more than just a classroom. It's an important time in life to learn and grow as a person while gaining independence and life skills.
- · Statistics show that a college education impacts health, family and community involvement.
 - Young adults with a college degree are much less likely to be obese than those with only a high school diploma.
 - Children of parents with a college degree are much more likely to be read to every day than children of parents with only a high school diploma.
 - Individuals with a college degree are more than twice as likely to volunteer as those with only a high school diploma.

The Tests You'll Need

You're required to take a number of tests during high school. Some help make sure you have the knowledge needed for graduation, and others measure your level of reading, writing and math skills. The good news is, tests can tell you a lot about yourself. They measure your knowledge and skill level, and help you judge how ready you are for college.

Remember, the information on this page is general. You should talk to sechool counselor, teacher, or your parents/guardians if you have question or are unsure which tests you will be taking.

Here are a few of the more common tests you may need to take, and why they're so important:

The STAAR (State of Texas Assessments of Academic Readiness) are required for students in grades 3-8 and are graduation requirement for students taking high school level courses in Algebra I, English II, English II, U.S. history, and biology. If your school district chooses to participate, optional assessments in English III and Algebra II may also be administered. The STAAR tests are designed to measure the extent to which you have learned and can apply the knowledge and skills defined in the state-mandated curriculum standards, the Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS). Check out STAAR FAQs or go to the STAAR Media Toolkit for more information. The STAAR tests replaced the previous state assessment, the Texas Assessment of Knowledge and Skills (TAKS) for students first enrolled in ninth grade in the 2011-2012 school year or later.

Many colleges and universities in the U.S. and Texas require you to take either the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) or the ACT Test. Often your scores on these tests determine whether you will be admitted to the college of your choice. Some colleges and universities award special scholarships based on your scores. The SAT and ACT indicate if you have the reading, writing and math skills needed for college-level work. The ACT test assesses high school students' general educational development and their ability to complete college-level work. The tests cover four areas: English, mathematics, reading and science. Almost every college in America accepts the SAT as a part of its admissions process. More than two million students take the SAT every year.

AP (Advanced Placement) and CLEP (College Level Examination Program) exams allow you to gain college credit for things you've learned in high school. College-level AP courses enable you to earn credit or advanced standing at Texas colleges and universities. CLEP tests give you the opportunity to receive college credit for what you you've already learned through independent study, prior course work, on-the-job training, professional development, cultural pursuits or internships.

All students (except those who meet certain exemptions) must take a Texas Success Initiative Assessment (TSIA) before enrolling in college-level courses. Your college advisor will use the results to help you choose the right courses. The TSIA is part of the Texas Success Initiative (TSI) program designed to help your college or university determine if you are ready for college-level course work in the areas of reading, writing, and mathematics. Your college advisor will use the results to help you choose the right courses.

These are some of the other test you may need to take, depending on your specific situation:

The PSAT/NMSQT (Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test) is a multiple-choice test administered by the College Board and National Merit Scholarship Corporation. PSAT scores determine eligibility for the National Merit Scholarship Program. Why take the PSAT? Your score could lead to a National Merit Scholarship (that's $ for college). Also, Your score could tell you a lot about how you might do on the SAT and where you may need help or practice. Finally, doing well on the PSAT can boost your confidence.

If you can't complete high school, you should take the GED (General Educational Development) Test. Passing the GED is equivalent to a high school diploma. When passed, this group of five tests certifies that you have high school level academic skills. To earn a GED, students must score higher than 40.

The Texas Assessment of Knowledge and Skills (TAKS), Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS), and Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) are no longer administered. Students for whom or of these tests was a graduation requirement should contact either their previous school district or the Texas Education Agency (512-463-9536) for more information if they have not met their testing graduation requirements.

Tips for Writing an Effective Application Essay

How should you present yourself in an essay?

Jeff Brenzel, Dean of Undergraduate Admissions, Yale University

An admission officer shares tips on writing an essay that reflects who you really are.

Video Transcript

When you apply to college, you'll need to complete an essay as part of your application. This is your opportunity to show admission officers who you are and to provide information about yourself that didn't fit in other areas of your application. The essay also reveals what you can do when you have time to think and work on a writing project.

The number one piece of advice from admission officers about your essay is "Be yourself." The number two suggestion is "Start early." Check out these other tips before you begin,

Choose a Topic That Will Highlight You

Don't focus on the great aspects of a particular college, the amount of dedication it takes to be a doctor or the number of extracurricular activities you took part in during high school.

Do share your personal story and thoughts, take a creative approach and highlight areas that aren't covered in other parts of the application, like your high school records.

Keep Your Focus Nairow and Personal

Don't try to cover too many topics. This will make the essay sound like a resume that doesn't provide any details about you.

Top two tips: Be yourself and start early

Do focus on one aspect of yourself so the readers can learn more about who you are. Remember that the readers must be able to find your main idea and follow it from beginning to end. Ask a parent or teacher to read just your introduction and tell you what he or she thinks your essay is about.

Show, Don't Tell

Don't simply state a fact to get an idea across, such as "I like to surround myself with people with a variety of backgrounds and interests."

Do include specific details, examples, reasons and so on to develop your ideas. For the example above, describe a situation when you were surrounded by various types of people. What were you doing? Whom did you talk with? What did you take away from the experience?

Use Your Own Voice

Don't rely on phrases or Ideas that people have used many times before. These could include statements like, "There is so much suffering in the world that I feel I have to help people." Avoid overly formal or business-like language, and don't use unnecessary words.

Do write in your own voice. For the above example, you could write about a real experience that you had and how it made you feel you had to take action. And note that admission officers will be able to tell if your essay was edited by an adult.

Ask a Teacher or Parent to Proofread

Don't turn your essay in without proofreading it, and don't rely only on your computer's spell check to catch mistakes. A spell-check program will miss typos like these:

"After I graduate form high school, I plan to get a summer job."

"From that day on, Daniel was my best fried,"

Do ask a teacher or parent to proofread your essay to catch mistakes. You should also ask the person who proofreads your essay if the writing sounds like you.

Paying for College

1) Start by controlling costs.

If you begin planning during high school, you can greatly reduce the cost of a college education. Some money-saving tips include:

Take the Recommended High School Program to prepare for college. If you're not academically prepared prior to enrollment, you'll need developmental education courses before taking college-level courses. These require time and money. Developmental courses are additional classes designed to make sure that you have the reading, writing and math skills you need for success in college.

Good academic preparation really saves you. For example: If you don't have the math, reading and writing skills you need to start college, this can require 1 to 3 additional courses in each subject area. That's 3 to 9 additional classes, or 9 to 27 semester credit hours, which means a whole year of study you'll have to pay for. For a four-year public university, that adds up to about $15,640. Ouch!

(*Costs are based on average charges for this type of institution for fall 2005, as reported by the institutions.)

Should you need developmental courses, you can reduce your costs by almost $1,500 by taking these courses at a community college close to home.

Take college courses while you're still in high school. Many school districts have special agreements with community colleges that allow high school students to take college-level courses without paying tuition or fees. Because you're still at home, you'll save on room and board and related expenses. Be sure to talk to your counselor about it.

Take Advanced Placement (AP) classes and exams or place out of college hours by taking a CLEP exam (College-Level Examination Program). You can get college credit without paying tuition, fee charges, and living costs. You'll also save time by cutting the number of hours you have to take—sometimes by a semester or more. For more information about Advanced Placement, visit the College Board's AP site, and to learn more about CLEP, visit the College Board's CLEP site. And ask your counselor about these programs.

Plan for college early, often and thoroughly. Switching majors can increase the amount of time you spend in college from one to four semesters.

Begin studies at a public community or technical college. You can complete your first two years of study and then transfer to a four-year college or university for your junior and senior years. Almost everyone in the state is within a 30-minute drive of a two-year community college, If you choose to begin at a community or technical college and transfer a university, you need to pay particular attention to which courses will be accepted at the university. Be sure to check the "Transfer Guide" on this website for information on transferring credits from a two-year community college,

Here's more good news: If you earn an associate's degree from a community college and then transfer to a Texas publ university within a year, you may be eligible for the TEXAS Grant.

(Please note: Students currently attending community colleges who are not eligible for the TEXAS Grant program may be eligible for the new Texas Educational Opportunity Grant program. Visit the Texas Educational Opportunity Grant page for more information or talk to your college or university financial aid office.)

2) Know your options for paying tuition and fees.

Most colleges and universities expect you to pay tuition and fees in full prior to the first day of class. But many offer a variety of payment options to help if you're unable to pay by cash or check. These options include:

Installment plans

During the fall and spring semesters, Texas public colleges and universities offer installment plans that allow students to more slowly pay their tuition and fees in full before the end of the semester.

Many private Texas colleges and universities also offer installment plans, but are not required to do so. Students receiving financial aid must first use financial aid resources to pay off an installment plan before the balance of the financial aid may be used for other purposes.

Emergency loans

These short-term loans are offered by some Texas colleges and universities (or an alternative lender) to cover the immediate costs of tuition, fees and books. If emergency loans are offered by your college, you may be asked to sign a promissory note (an agreement to repay the loan) and generally the loan must be repaid prior to the end of the semester. Interest and penalty payments may apply.

Credit card payments

Many institutions allow you to pay your tuition and fees with Visa, MasterCard, American Express, Discover or another major credit card. Some will limit these payments to specific credit card types (such as Visa or MasterCard) and most will charge an additional fee to cover the cost of the credit card transaction.

Financial aid

If you're eligible for financial aid, most Texas colleges will allow you delay paying your tuition and fees until your financial aid funds are available.

Types of Financial aid

Here you'll find links to the many kinds of financial aid available to students attending Texas colleges and universities. Types of Financial Aid

3) Apply for financial aid

What is FAFSA?

FAFSA stands for the Free Application for Federal Student Aid. As the name indicates, there is no charge to apply or for the processing of your application. No matter how many schools you are applying to, you only need to fill out one FAFSA. Once your application is processed by the federal processor, you and the schools you have selected will be notified of the results. The schools then start the process of determining the funding you're eligible for. If you're not eligible to complete the FAFSA because of your immigration status, you may be eligible to complete the TASFA (the Texas Application for Stat Financial Aid). To find out which application you should use, just take this simple survey: "Which financial aid application should you use?"

Where can you find the FAFSA?

You can usually find the FAFSA at your high school counseling office, or you can get a copy from any college financial aid office. If you'd like to complete the application electronically, you can get the Web version on the FAFSA website. Please remember: Completing the FAFSA online is the fastest way to apply. The processing time for forms submitted online is about two weeks. The processing time for paper applications is about six to eight weeks. So click away!

When should you complete the FAFSA?

The FAFSA should be completed and processed as soon as possible after January 1 for students expecting to enroll in college in the following fall. The amount of financial aid is limited and many students apply. The sooner you complete your forms, the better your chance of getting a good financial aid package. More than $60 billion in financial aid is distributed each year, but this is not enough to meet the financial need of all college students in the United States.

How should you complete the FAFSA?

To complete the form, you and your parents will need to fill out information about your financial status (income, assets, savings, etc.). This is the same information you'd share with a bank or other lender when requesting a loan for a new car chome, and that you are required to put on your tax return each year.

4) Beware of scholarship scams.

Be on the lookout for fraudulent scholarship offers. For more information, please visit: http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/microsites/scholarship/

College Costs - 2020-2021 - All Institutions

Information is based on average costs for dependent students living off campus who enroll in 15 credit hours in both fall and spring.

Due to the ongoing efforts of institutions to address the COVID-19 pandemic, the cost of attendance information published may not fully reflect the actual charges that students incur during this upcoming year. Please check directly with an institution before making any final conclusions.
