ABUSE: ALCOHOL & DRUGS

1. Alcoholics Anonymous:

www.aa.org

Alcoholics Anonymous® is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength, and hope with each other that they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from alcoholism. The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking. There are no dues or fees for AA membership; we are self-supporting through our own contributions. AA is not allied with any sect, denomination, politics, organization, or institution; does not wish to engage in any controversy, neither endorses nor opposes any causes. Our primary purpose is to stay sober and help other alcoholics to achieve sobriety.

2. Alcohol 24-Hour Helpline:

www.thegooddrugsguide.com

If you're calling about a loved one, get as much information as you can on how long the alcohol addiction has been going on, dosages/amounts, frequency, or if there are any other substances being abused.

It will also be very useful to have details on the addict's mental state or whether they are suffering from any behavioral disorders or other co-occurring disorders.

Have your insurance information ready, if you do have insurance, or at least have an idea what type of insurance it is, whether it's PPO or HMO, for instance. If there is no insurance, or if your insurance will not cover the entire recovery cost, be ready to discuss finances or if you have money available for the treatment.

3. Rape Crisis Hotline:

www.rainn.org

At any given moment, more than 1,100 trained volunteers are on duty and available to help victims at RAINN (Rape, Abuse & Incest National Network)-affiliated crisis centers across the country.

How does the National Sexual Assault Hotline work?

The concept behind the hotline is simple. When a caller dials 1.800.656.HOPE, a computer notes the area code and first three digits of the caller's phone number. The call is then instantaneously connected to the nearest RAINN member center. If all counselors at that center are busy, the call is sent to the next closest center. The caller's phone number is not retained, so the call is anonymous and confidential unless the caller chooses to share personally-identifying information.

5. Libraries:

Public libraries are distinct from research libraries, school libraries, and other special libraries in that their mandate is to serve the general public’s information needs (rather than the needs of a particular school, institution, or research population). Public libraries also provide free services such as preschool story times to encourage early literacy, quiet study and work areas for students and professionals, or book clubs to encourage appreciation of literature in adults. Public libraries typically allow users to take books and other materials off the premises temporarily; they also have non-circulating reference collections and provide computer and Internet access to patrons.
