The Every Child Fund

We are very grateful for the enthusiastic support thus far to the annual fund! We are running 5% ahead of last year at this time, even with a significantly later start date this year due to challenges related to the pandemic. Your generosity allows us to continue to expand support for tuition assistance, build out our robotics and computer science program, and continue to add even more permanent differentiation strategies for our instructional program. Of course, the ECF also supports the enormous unpredictable costs of enhancing safety and mitigating risk during this challenging time.

Thank you and Happy November!

Peter Reinke
Head of School
St. James' Episcopal School

Thank you to those that have already contributed to the Every Child Fund.

Friday's Chapel was filled with joy, laughter, the word of the Lord and some special treats in honor of Halloween. Father Koh welcomed everyone and reminded the students and families that all faiths are celebrated and revered in our Episcopal chapel.

Mr. Reinke was delayed at Denny's on Friday getting pumpkin pancakes for Mother Kate, so he asked his cousin, Sherlock Reinke, to give the homily. Sherlock gave us a brief history of Halloween both in this country and in Europe. Halloween, historically, in the United States, was a time where some folks enjoyed dressing up in scary outfits and scaring one another. Halloween also marked the end of summer and the beginning of cold winter days.

One last thing, Sherlock added, American society, much like Joshua and the Hebrews in exile, has had a tough time lately. Sherlock said that even his cousin, Mr. Reinke struggles with these days and misses seeing all of his students in person. It is not new for human beings to deal with challenges and St. James' students have empathy, ethics, and courage to always do what is right. Sherlock suggested that when we see someone who is struggling and appears unkind, that is the person that needs our kindness the most.

Teachers, students, and families came in full Halloween attire. Every student received a treat-filled Jack-O-Lanterns and warm greetings from their teachers.

We hope you had a happy Halloween.
