

The arts are fundamental to our humanity – and to an Agnes Irwin education.

Our studio arts, media arts, photography, theater, music, and dance programs invite girls to dream big, stretch their brains, and ditch their comfort zones. In classes, performances, and clubs, our students are developing the skills our 21st-century world — and workplaces — need. Like creativity. Emotional intelligence. Innovation. Problem-solving. And critical thinking.

Led by a faculty of juried visual artists, published playwrights, and professional performance artists, students delve deep into the art of self-expression and discover the artist within.

THEATER

Theater at AIS empowers students to explore all aspects of the art: acting technique, voice, script writing, directing, marketing and publicity, lighting and sound, stage crew, and set design.

Theater opportunities start in Lower School, with our PreK students performing on the big stage in the West-Wike Theatre. Middle School students continue to grow their skills through theater classes, a fifth grade performance, and our Middle School musical. In Upper School, students can study theater history and practice in the first two years, after which they can specialize in production direction, playwriting, or acting, and participate in the fall musical, play, various cabarets and clubs, or join our repertory company (RepCo) board.

MUSIC

We pride ourselves on being a singing school.

Lower School and Middle School music classes are based on a sequential curriculum integrating the Kodály Method that instills the joy of singing. Upper schoolers can participate in our choir, or audition to join the Bel Cantos, our select cappella ensemble that performs throughout the community in concerts, benefits, and inter-school events. Middle schoolers have the opportunity to participate in various music activities, including the Middle School choir, called the Grace Notes, as well as the Middle School musical. Past performances have included The Music Man Jr. and The Little Mermaid Jr. Starting in third grade, we offer elective group instrumental instruction, and our Upper School students can elect to specialize in music theory, composition, and arranging. In addition, music students can utilize our state-of-the-art piano lab and composition room to flex their creative muscles and experiment with writing original pieces of music.

DANCE

Dance at AIS focuses on both the artistic expression and physical benefits of this art form. The diverse program includes technique through ballet, jazz, modern, hip-hop, ethnic, and social dances. A class in choreography allows dancers to create their own works that are part of our annual Dance Motion recital. Middle schoolers are introduced to the aesthetic elements of dance through movement classes.

PHOTOGRAPHY

Photography is an all-encompassing program with a stimulating rubric developed by the school's expertly trained photography instructor. In this program, students are exposed to fundamental photographic techniques, including traditional photographic techniques, including traditional photography (darkroom), digital photographic technology and alternative processing techniques, with opportunities to further improve their skills in advanced and specialized courses.

MEDIA ARTS

The Media Arts program at AIS introduces students to the elements and principles of design and how they are applied to the world of digital design and communication.

Through the hands-on use of digital technologies and access to a state-of-the-art Mac Lab, students develop unique and personal expressions in design and communication with an emphasis on creative problem solving and independent thinking.

STUDIO ART

Studio Art is a deep and varied program at AIS. Throughout the program, students in all three divisions explore the elements of art and how those elements apply to both their classroom activities and their daily life. The carefully sequenced Studio Art classes focus on and explore the fundamentals of visual art, two-dimensional design, three-dimensional design, ceramics, and drawing.

We believe everyone can learn to “think like an artist.”
