- ▶ At AS Level we achieved 90% A - C in August 2019
- ▶ We use a wide range of teaching styles from debates, to discussions and formal essay writing
- ▶ We are the best which can only make you the best philosophers!!

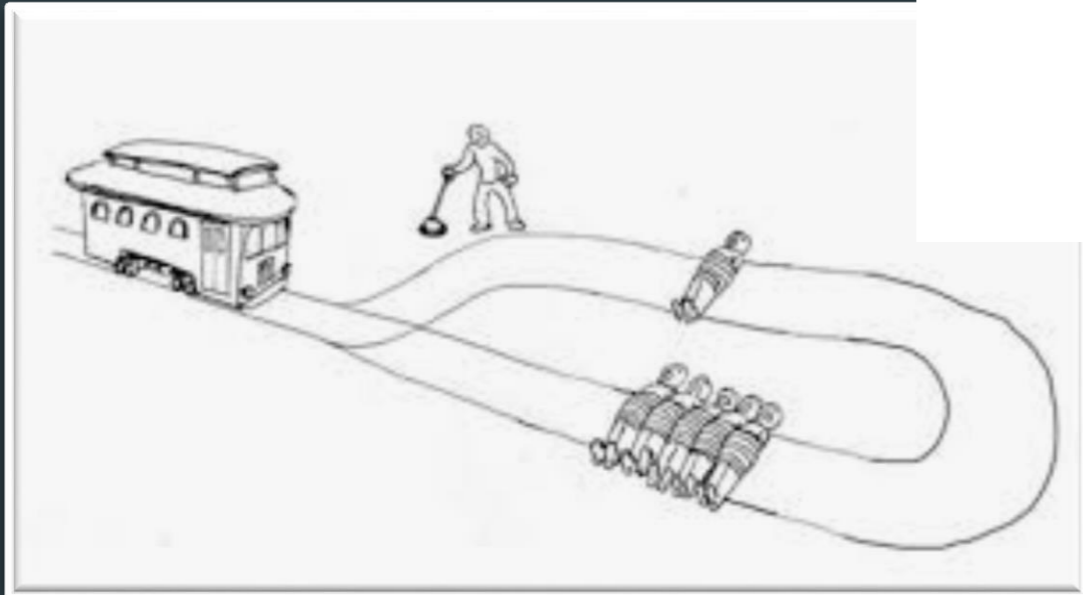

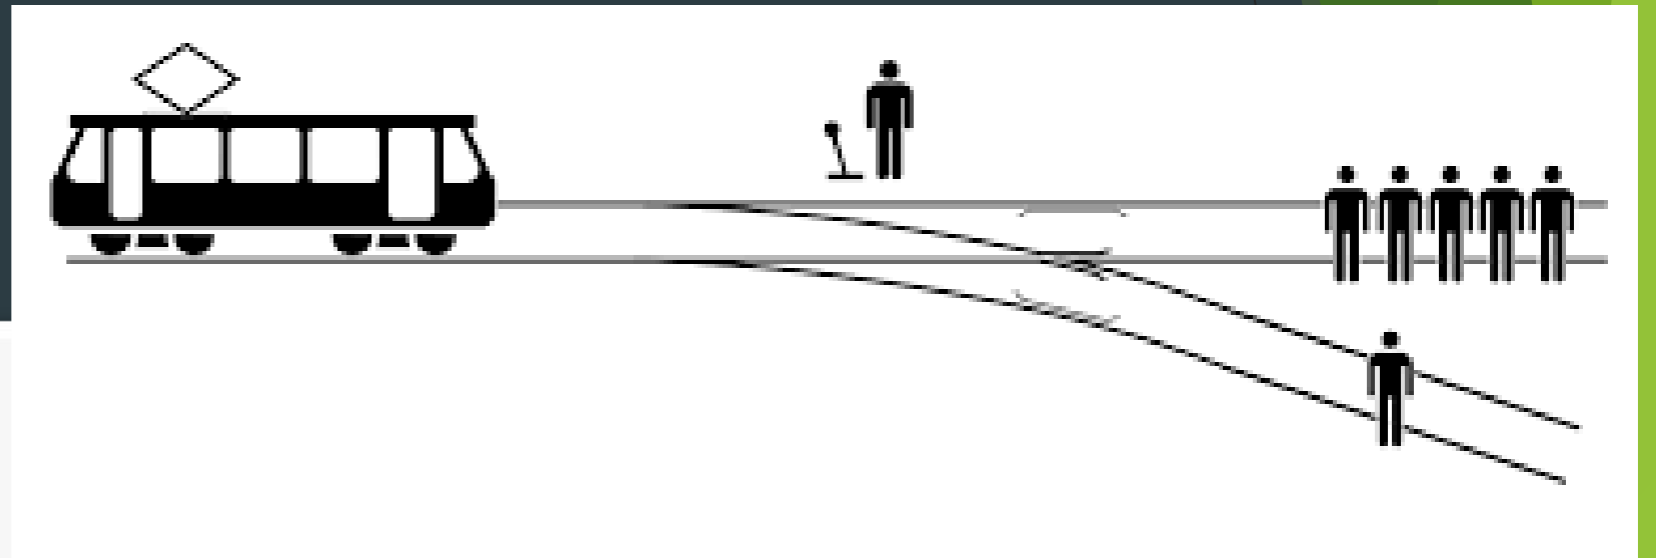

Why chose A Level Philosophy and Ethics?

- ▶ Philosophy is a subject which you won't have studied before
- ▶ Philosophy asks deep questions, which includes questioning the meaning of life? What our purpose is? If we even have a purpose? Is there any form of existence after this life? What makes us who we are? Where does evil originate from? Do we truly have freewill?
- ▶ Ethics asks questions about your everyday life and evaluates how we come to know our morality. It encourages you reassess how you go about your everyday life in the world and makes you think on a deeper level of what really is wrong and right. Ethics is involved in every judgement you make and there's no escaping it.
- ▶ Christian Thought - Explores human nature, the self and the afterlife. Within this we examine sin and grace and the concepts of Christian Ethics. Are Christian Ethics and values the right way to live or are these Ethics now out of date and irrelevant?

Why chose A Level Philosophy and Ethics?

- ▶ Have a look at this 'ethical' dilemma as an example of what Ethics is and what you will study as part of your Philosophy and Ethics A Level

A Level Philosophy and Ethics

I opted to take Philosophy as it provides a fascinating insight into real-world debates, issues, and dilemmas; As well as providing a whole new perspective of looking at the world and universe. There are many different aspects to the course of Philosophy, such as different theories of existence, ethical theories, including their applications to different scenarios, from Business Ethics to Euthanasia. Philosophy is a vast subject that is applicable to all subjects, such as Psychology, English Literature/Language, Sociology, and Politics. Within Philosophy lessons, there are many debates and discussions into topic areas which help with not only the development of knowledge and understanding but also personal confidence!
(Current Year 13 Student)

Doing A-level Philosophy was one of the most challenging yet beneficial experiences of sixth form. For anyone wanting to go into Politics, Journalism, Law or Academia, I would seriously urge them to take on this wonderful course. Doing International Relations at King's College London now, I feel like I'm a step above the other students that didn't take Philosophy not just because the way my teachers prepared me to think critically but also the way they encouraged me to write essays to the highest of standards."
