7. CSI plan updates-Mrs. Cordova-The leadership team met on October 6th and planned how they were going to roll out the professional learning plan to teachers at an upcoming faculty meeting. Janice Bradley from UEPC presented a power point outlining the components of the learning design model. Teachers will be asked to think of a PL Design as a container where learning takes place as an adult learner. Gives each teacher voice and choice in what and how they learn. Aligns professional learning to the CSI plan goals for student outcomes. Job-embedded. Supported by coaching, reflective partner. Promotes active adult learning processes. Whatever design teachers choose needs to be meaningful and authentic. The first design must be completed by December 18th. The second learning design will be completed in the spring. Teachers can choose to do more than two learning designs during the year. A Mini-Focus Academy was held on October 8, with the coaches, Janice Bradley from UEPC, Stacey Briggs, the principal and upper grade teacher representative. Continued discussion on the plan for the Professional Learning Design cycles was discussed during the meeting. Teachers are currently planning and carrying out their PLD with their reflective partners. Teachers will be sharing documentation of their learning cycles with administration and the leadership team. The upcoming CSI/PBIS meeting will have Rachel Nance, from Innovations Consulting Firm joining us to discuss the observation data she collected during her visit. She will also be interviewing the leadership team to gather additional information on the focus of the work planned for the upcoming school year relative to our CSI/School Improvement Plan.
