January 20 through January 26, 2021	Engaging the Traumatized Student A Fresh Perspective on Neurodevelopment & Social/Emotional Issues Fact: According to NCTSN (National Child Traumatic Stress Network), one out of every four children attending school has been exposed to a traumatic event that can affect learning and/or behavior. This webinar provides educators, counselors, and school social workers the most important information to increase their effectiveness in working with traumatized students and helping them achieve their highest academic level. Through illustrations of “Trauma Roadblock” and “Aversive State”, participants learn why students seem to sabotage their own academic performance and learn creative strategies for dealing with specific behaviors as well as how to use videos and experiential moments to inspire and give hope to traumatized students.	Deadline to Register: January 18th Registration Link Highlands Only: ERO #20210918020
January 27 through February 2, 2021	Executive Function Skills and Academic Success Executive function skills help children remember and follow multi-step instructions, avoid distractions, control rash responses, adjust when rules change, persist at problem-solving, and manage longer-term assignments. Some experts believe EF skills are a better indicator of academic success than IQ! Learn ways to help students develop and hone their EF skills as you learn how the brain works and why some students have a more difficult time with mastery than others. Gain take-away methods and practices to improve the Executive Function skills of all students providing a more manageable, achievement-oriented classroom.	Deadline to Register: January 25th Registration Link Highlands Only: ERO #20210050021
February 3 through February 9, 2021	Mindset Matters Teaching Growth Mindset in Schools This innovative 90-minute webinar will reveal how Carol Dweck’s research-based theory can be applied in a classroom curriculum and/or small group counseling by using the acronym MINDSET to frame any lesson. Based upon her new book, Mindset Matters, Lisa King will demonstrate how these lessons can give students an understanding of how the brain works, infuse them with the magic of grit and demonstrate the benefits of learning. Since these concepts align with social/emotional, academic, and career domains, counselors and teachers will walk away with a clear way to structure lessons and groups.	Deadline to Register: February 1st Registration Link Highlands Only: ERO #20211107056
