

ANNOUNCING NEW HEAD OF SCHOOL RABBI MARSHALL LESACK

Rabbi Marshall Lesack is an educational and organizational leader with senior management experience in both the formal and experiential education fields. Since 2015, he has served as the Principal of the Claire and Emanuel G. Rosenblatt High School at Donna Klein Jewish Academy. During his tenure, he led the development of the school's specialized programs in medicine, engineering, and law, redesigned the Judaic Studies curriculum, and oversaw the growth of student life programming and enrollment in the high school.

In addition to his work in the school environment, Rabbi Lesack previously served as the Assistant Director of Camp Ramah Darom and worked as an educational and organizational consultant for summer camps. An educator at heart, he has taught teenagers and adults in a variety of educational settings over the past 20 years.

Rabbi Lesack is passionate about Jewish day school education and strives to create environments and communities where young people are valued, supported, and able to become the leaders of tomorrow. He was a YOU Lead fellow with Prizmah and completed the Art of Leadership at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. A proud alumnus of Akiba Hebrew Academy ('97), Rabbi Lesack holds degrees from Rutgers University and the Jewish Theological Seminary of America and has also studied at various institutions in Israel.

Rabbi Lesack and his wife have three children, two of whom will be students at Jack M. Barrack Hebrew Academy beginning in the fall of 2021.
