Qualitative Question Results

Ideas I most want to remember...

- Having student folders ready with work samples according to their appointment times
- I like the way that she organized the folders in order to lead the conversation in the way that it covered all of the necessary materials.
- Is in the provided folder!! THANK YOU!!! also, show data, show student growth, and provide a list of available resources for concerned parents.
- Keeping things comfortable and positive!
- Make sure to keep things positive and be prepared.
- The form that is required to turn into my SOO at the end of the 2nd day of conferences.
- The parent scenarios were very enlightening. Being a first year teacher, I wasn't sure how to approach "angry" or "upfront" parents. Now I have a clearer idea of how to help them.
- To approach parent conferences in a positive manner.
- Ways to handle different encounters with parents

I appreciate...

- all of the materials in that were provided to preview what was going to be provided later on as it is useful in not getting overwhelmed.
- I appreciate all the info and experiences of the other teachers.
- I appreciate the feedback that was shared aloud when we were discussing possible parent variables during conferences. It helped to have some ideas at the ready just in case.
- The folder for conferences and the scenario group work!
- the handouts and tips
- The handouts, and the scenarios
- The help and the materials we received.
- The packet! The packet was very convenient and loaded with amazing materials!
- The provided organized folder! This is SO HELPFUL!!

What additional professional learning would you like in order to build your capacity pertaining to this session's topic?

- How to talk with parents who's child is on IEP and the difference between the grade level standard and where their child is academically.
- I would like to hopefully see another parent teacher meeting example. Another video of what to do or not do, and how to deal with the situation.
- watch a video of an actual parent-teacher conference.
- what might be good resources to send home with parents for those that are concerned with their student not getting sufficient instruction.

Additional comments...

- Great presentation! I learned a lot.
- Great tips!
- Thank you so much!
