Soaring Spirit

by Bill Reinhardt and Chris Fete

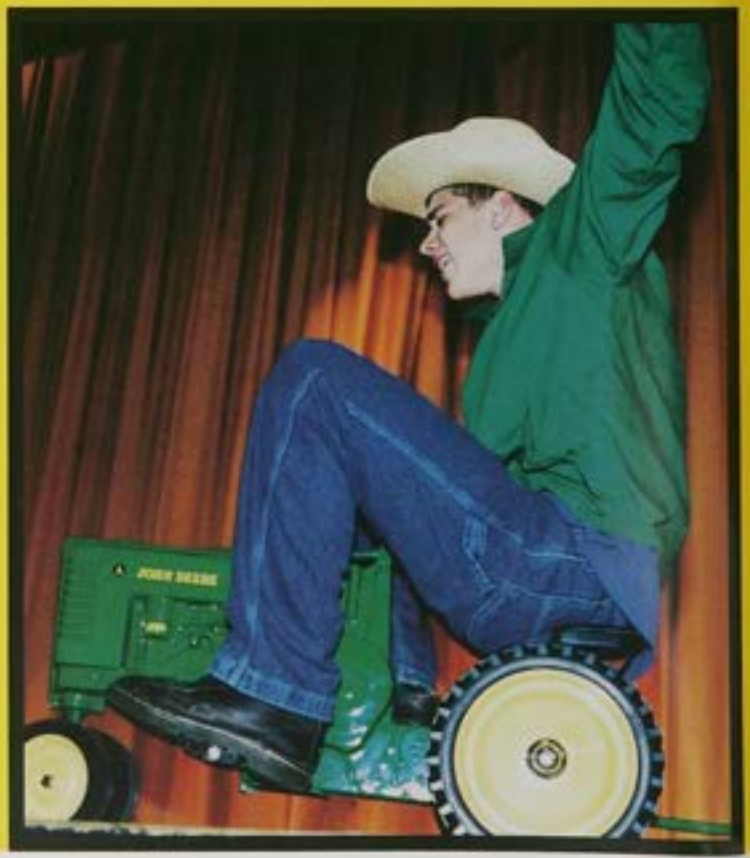

The Vianney Student Council sponsored a week's worth of spirit building activities. To start the week on the right foot, Monday was dress-up day for Liturgy. Tuesday, September 11, was a day of shock and mourning, but it did not stop the Griffins' spirit. Students dressed up for Toga Tuesday. Some of the students would say that Wednesday was the best day because it was pajama day. Students were given time to take a nap during 'C' period. A school prayer service was held in memory of the victims of the New York City and Pentagon attacks. Thursday was Crazy Dress Day. This is the day when Griffins show their crazy side by dressing as insanely as their imagination can handle. Some students had crazy socks or hair, plaid pants, goofy hats, etc. Also on Thursday, the Griffin family held a blood drive to contribute to the shortage in New York City. This was very successful for how short of notice it was. The Vianney Family gave 117 pints of blood. Last, but not least, Friday was by far the best since it was a Black and Gold Day, and the STUCO held a great wrestling pep rally. During the pep-rally, STUCO also introduced the new Griffin mascot when he came in and beat up the Parkway West Longhorns mascot. Finally, as part of the Vianney tradition, STUCO members and teachers would choose a student for The Most Spirited Griffin Award. Fall spirit week's Most Spirited Griffins were: Senior Phil Alles, Junior John Bader, Sophomore Nick Sandweg, and Freshman Andrew Hoy. These Griffins displayed their spirit all week by dressing up and participating in many activities.

Homecoming 2001

It's an Animal House

by Adam Wiesehan & Jeff Nations

Homecoming is undoubtedly the most anticipated night of the year. Many weeks are spent by faculty members, students and student council preparing for this eventful occasion. Students prepare weeks in advance by making dinner reservations, purchasing outfits, and picking out flowers. Every aspect of this night must be perfect. This year's theme was Animal House, and the name lived up to its expectations. The D.J. played a wide variety of music, everything from Aerosmith to Brittney Spears. A lot of people agreed that the D.J. did not play the greatest variety but it didn't seem to ruin anything. People really liked the fact that the big screen on the stage that played videos along with the music was back this year. "I thought that screen really added to the whole effect of the dance. The whole event seemed pretty high tech," said freshman John Brownfield. Everyone had a great time. "The dance was fun, I had a great time, I'm sad it was my last" said senior Mike Brannan. This year's homecoming king was our beloved student council president Tom Cowley, and his date Anne McCullough was his queen. Although the rest of the court had high potential for winning, Tom was just a better candidate. The dance had a good turn out overall. There was a good amount of people, and the gym was decked out for the Animal House theme. Despite a crushing loss to Parkway West in the football game the night before, the dance raised everyone's homecoming spirits, and a good time was had by all. Next year should be even bigger and better, so keep watch for what student council has up their sleeves!

SHOW ME Some Griffin Pride

by Jim Mounts & Dan Barnidge

Every year Griffins of all shapes and sizes show their pride and their creativity on Black and Gold days, pep rallies, and Spirit Week. This year, many students went all out. From face paintings to outgoing costumes, intense wrestling matches to fun basketball games, singing and dancing to dressing in drag and prancing around on stage, you name it and someone at Vianney did it during Winter Spirit Week. Some students use Black and Gold days as nothing else but an excuse to dress down, while others go far beyond the call of duty and cover themselves in black and gold. Students love to be able to dress more comfortably and at the same time show everyone that they are in fact proud to be called a Griffin. No other school has the spirit and dedication that Vianney students have, and that's what makes this school so special. We've seen some strange and crazy things during Spirit Week, and each time there's always someone ready to upstage the opposition. So whether you were covered from head to toe in black and gold, or wore a black T-shirt, you let everyone know that you are proud to go to Vianney, and be a Griffin.

Peace – Dan Natsch and John Scott are having a great time during this black and gold day. "It's great to dress down and wear whatever you want," said Dan.

For Three! – Dru Kennedy gets ready to throw up the game-winning shot in the Senior vs. Faculty basketball game during the Winter Spirit Week. "After watching last year's game I thought it would be fun and in a sense a way to really get involved in something," said Dru.

Showin' Some Spirit – Seniors Ryan Ahillen, Tom Cowley, and Mike Bueltmann on Black and Gold Day. "We were passing out flyers to the Vianney vs. Vashon game; that was one of the best Scramblers best performances," said the guys.

Rams Roll Over Faculty

by Jeff Basler

One of the most anticipated events of the spring semester was the Vianney faculty vs. St. Louis Rams basketball game. Because of the anticipated large crowd, it was held at Meramec Community College. Over one thousand fans were in attendance at the start of the game to see members of the Vianney faculty and Channel 2 reporters Tim Ezell and Glen Zimmermann go up against a tough St. Louis Rams team. In attendance for the Rams were nose guard Jeff Zgonina, defensive lineman Tyoka Jackson, fullback James Hodgins, outside linebacker Dan Davis, and kickoff returner/ wide receiver Francis St. Paul. Punt returner Yo Murphy was also at the game, but was unable to play due to an injury. Unfortunately, Vianney lost to the Rams 60-47, but it was not without a struggle.

The Vianney faculty had several bright moments with Coach Luhning scoring several three-pointers and Tim Ezell making a few nice moves near the end of the game. The star of the game had to be Jeff Zgonina of the St. Louis Rams, who went 2 for 22 shooting during the game, allowing the Vianney faculty to keep it close. Most importantly, everyone had a good time. "It was fun seeing the Rams players and spending time with my friends on a Saturday night," said freshman Matt Tissi.

Griffin's Show Their True Colors

September 11, 2001

by Brandon Basler and Jon Grathoff

After the September 11th attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, Vianney showed how patriotic they could be by participating in a "Red, White and Blue Day." In the midst of all the chaos and confusion in the world, students lifted everyone's spirits by dressing in every red, white and blue article of clothing they could get their hands on. Seniors went through all of the lunch periods with a bucket picking up donations to be sent to the relief fund for New York. In all, the Griffin family collected a grand total of $5,036, this was to be sent to the victim's families in New York and Washington D.C. The day was coordinated entirely by C. Walsh, and after much hard work it turned out to be a huge success and a great showing of patriotism towards the community.

A Little Bonding

by Mike Neuner

On Tuesday, November 13, 2001 Vianney Students joined their fathers at the Adams Mark Hotel for the annual Vianney Father Son Banquet. They joined together to celebrate what it means to be a part of the Vianney family.

The night included dinner, a raffle, and guest speaker, Tom Ackerman from KMOX. After a dinner that included choices such as steak or chicken, Tom Ackerman took the podium. His speech touched on topics including the benifits of having a good relationship with your father and the importance of athletics in everyday life.

After the speech, raffle tickets were drawn by Father Wosman. Prizes included Vianney T-Shirts, lunch boxes, and other Vianney merchandise. The big prize was $850 in cash. "It was a great way to bond with my dad and we learned more about each other," said Freshman Josh Cook, "although I wish I had won the $850, I had a lot of fun and look forward to next year's."

This is one of the most anticipated and often one of the attended functions of the year at Vianney. It is a first-class event the school organizes that helps enable fathers to spend time with their sons in a great environment.

Shake Your Groove Thing

by Frank Henry

Dancing the night away with your mom? Doesn't sound like that much fun, huh? Well it was a total blast at the annaul Vianney Mother-Son Dance. This year the event was held at The Cedars downtown. "It was a great way for us to get to know our mom's in a way we don't usually get the opportunity to," said Senior Tom O' Connell.

The night got kicked off with a buffet dinner. After the majority of people had eaten, the music started. One of the highlights of this year's Mother-Son Dance was when the students pulled Principal Keller onto the dance floor to shake his groove thing with the rest of the students and moms. Another highlight of this year's dance was when senior Sean Shortell did the "Vador Dance" for everybody. The Mother-Son Dance this year brought the mothers and the sons much closer and it gave the students a chance to see their mom's shake their groove thing. This event is always a special night on the Vianney calender.

A Fond Farewell to Our Fathers

Father Wosman steps down as President of Vianney in order to pursue his doctorate degree full time.

Mr. John Mohr is welcomed into full communion with the Roman Catholic Church.

After eight years of experience and service, Father Richard Wosman is leaving Vianney to pursue his doctorate. Vianney has grown tremendously over the past few years, and much of the progress can be credited to the dedication and hard work of Father.

Father Cahill retires from teaching to become a full time associate pastor at Our Lady of the Pillar parish.

Fr. J. Donald Cahill was presented with the Master Teacher Award at the Jubilee Mass.

by Joe Bleitner

Griffins come and go from Vianney all the time. Most are students, some are brothers, and some are teachers. But at the end of the 2001-2002 school year, there is one very special Griffin leaving, Father Don Cahill. Father Cahill has influenced all of us in our experiences here at Vianney, if it's just a smile and wave in the hall, if you had him for freshmen religion class, or if you had a problem and needed someone to talk to, he was always there to listen and always did it with a smile.

"I was always struck with what Mary was told, Nothing is impossible with God," says Father, "Mary has helped me be a farmer of good seed in life, planting Gospel truths of her Son that there is only one goal for all of us: to learn to love and care for each other... to forgive and help each other."

Father has been in the Society of Mary since 1949. He is leaving Vianney because his parish, Our Lady of the Pillar, needs him to be an associate pastor, which is a full time job. "My happiest years have been the years working at St. John Vianney High School."

From personal experiences with Father, he was never too busy to take time out of his day to talk with me. He always smiles, waves, and slaps you a high five when you pass him in the hallway. And he would always be in his classroom, Room 208, having activities and eating snacks. He is one of the greatest influences in my life, and he will be missed by, not just me, but by the entire student body and faculty. He leaves Vianney just the way he came; with a smile and an optimistic look in his eye.

Coach Boeckman Retires

The 1968-69 Varsity Griffins In just three years, Coach Boeckman was able to transform Vianney into an area power with the team finishing at 21-5. "What made that team so exceptional is that they were great athletes and even better students," he said.

The Boeckman Era in Basketball (1966-1995)

Record: 385-363 (Vianney basketball's all-time winningest coach.)

District championships: 1979-1980, 1983-84, 1991-92, and 1994-95.

Catholic Athletic Conference (C.A.C.) championships: 1970-71, 1974-75, 1977-78, 1978-79, and 1982-83.

Led his 1991-1992 team to the state quarterfinals, where they lost to eventual state champ Riverview Gardens. The 1992 team set a school record for wins with 24.

The Boeckman Era in Baseball (1967-1986)

Record: 218-155-3 (Vianney baseball's all-time winningest coach.)

Winning Pecentage: .580

District Championships: 1974 and 1981

1980 team holds the record for most wins as a team (18-4)

1982 Team has the best winning percentage (16-1)

The 1974 Griffin Baseball Team– The Griffins brought home their first-ever C.A.C. and district titles in baseball in 1974. The season ended in regionals, however, the team fell to eventual state champion Hazelwood 2-1 on a wild pitch in the ninth inning.

Brother Rudy celebrates 50 Years of Service

Brother Rudy has just recently completed 50 years of service as a Brother in the Society of Mary. He joined the Society at the age of 17 before graduating high school.

SHOW ME WHAT'S NEW

Ryan Welker and T.J. Signaigo

When the Griffins returned to school this year they found a few things had changed. This made for one interesting first week of school.

One of the big changes was the math department being moved up to the old Maryhurst Gym. Half of the gym was turned into new classrooms. So the students make the trip up to Maryhurst every day for math.

Another change was the gym lobby. New trophy cases were installed, giving the gym lobby a newer, brighter appearance that allows more space for the Griffins to show off their accomplishments. You may have noticed the gym lobby had a new tile floor installed, adding to the new appearance of the lobby.

If you had a chance to walk by the chapel, you would have noticed new stained glass windows opposite to the entrance. The windows were salvaged from Brownhurst. Two of the most recognizable would be of the Blessed Father Chaminade and the other of the Virgin Mary.

So as you can see, much time, effort, and money was put into improving the school over the summer. Hopefully, you were able to take time to stop and look around and see how much better Vianney looks.

Show Me The Block Schedule

by Jason Waters

The senior class of 2002 has had a four-year experience that no other class at Vianney has. Freshmen year for the senior class of 2002 was the first year Vianney was on the Intensive Four Block Schedule.

Most of the freshmen were completely flabbergasted by the prospect of having only four class each day. Even more amazing was the length of the classes, a full hour and twenty-five minutes. This was quite a jump from the fifty-minute classes most students were used to in grade school, but the new Griffins were strong, they adjusted, and they pressed on vigilantly to Christmas break, much needed by most everyone in the school. Christmas break brought about several new problems, as many would discover the day they returned.

The last week before break students were given a schedule that they were to hold on to until after the break. This apparently didn't register on the large majority of the class, as the first day back there was a long line coming from the main office as people begged for a new schedule. Problems also arose when students went to their first semester classrooms or the wrong room entirely. However, like in the first semester, the vigilant class of 2002, then only freshmen, got back into the groove of things and worked through the end of the year and then the next three.

Show Me The Good Times – Tim Sedlak, Tom Cowley, Tim Koerber, Mike St. Cin, Zach Bodine, Andy Dacey, Tom Detwiler, and Tony Dacey enjoy the food and drinks at the Mom Prom, but food and drink are nothing compared to the chance to have fun with friends. "I'll never forget these guys," said Tom Detwiler, "alot of good times."

Making Memories

by Tom O'Connell

The time every senior waits for to signify the end of his high school years is prom. The class of 2002 got the chance to dance the night away on May 5th. As the seniors strolled in, sporting suits and tuxedos and with their dates, dressed to kill, the fun began.

The event was held at Windows on Washington, which provided a great atmosphere for the seniors and their dates to have a memorable evening. Overall, prom was a great event attended by over 350 people, who danced the night away after a great dinner.

As the DJ pumped up the music, the bodies hit the dance floor. Despite a wealth of teenybopper songs and the occasional rap song, the music was awesome. The highlight of the night was Mr. Hall's wife getting down to Sir-Mix-A-Lot's "Baby Got Back."

"Everyone seemed to have a really good time at prom," said Jon Grothoff. By far, the best dressed was Matt Duchek in his powder blue coat and pink shirt. As the night wore on, and the guys became more comfortable with their surroundings, and their dates the dance moves became more and more interesting. Some danced as if no one were watching, but unfortunately for all, we were.

In the end prom was a blast, and a night to remember.

Group Hug~ Jeff Menne, Ben Cox, Trevor Davenport, and their dates are all smiles as they engage in a meaningful discussion concerning getting their groove on. Everyone in attendance agreed that this year's prom was definitely one of the highlights of the year.

Super Cool~ Mike St. Cin and Tom Cowley, fresh off a long day of work as fast-talking private eyes, waltz into the prom.

Two Much~ Mike Buelmann makes his way across the dance floor with two of his friends.

Just Chillin'~ Matt Guillot and his date smile for the camera at prom. " Prom was the greatest night of my life, and I will remember it for the rest of my life," said Matt.

Riding in Style~ Tom O'Connell and his date Bridget Dugan cruise in a decked-out limo before prom. "The limo was long. It had cups of soda, leather, a phone, and a little radio," said Tom.

Griffins For Life

by Mike Badolato

Out of all the important times in a person's life, graduating from high school certainly holds a prominent position. Graduation marks the end of a short-lived, four-year journey. On May 18th, the Vianney seniors marked the beginning of a new part in their lives as the class of 2002 received their diplomas.

The class was brought together one last time to celebrate its accomplishments with friends and family. This time was spent to honor the seniors; every one of them was called out by name and recognized.

But while their time at Vianney has ended and they no longer walk down our halls as leaders and role models, they will always be connected to the Vianney spirit and be forever known as Griffins.

For several reasons, this school year is one that no one will soon forget. Hopefully for our seniors, it was a time of celebration, freedom, just having fun, and of up course hard work. Leading up to the final days, on May 4th they attended their prom, just another once-in-a-lifetime event to make their last year stick out as unique; and on May 9th they completed their classes here at Vianney.

It's important to remember where they are moving on to, because it too is a mark of their accomplishment. For many of them college is the next step. Now more than ever, they are shaping their lives for a future, and we hope that it is one of happiness and success for all of them. While for many it may be disheartening to leave what has been a major part of their lives for the past four years, the prospect of what is ahead and the many things they have yet to accomplish has surely marked the event with anticipation and joy, not sadness.

The graduating class of 2002 was a class both diverse and unique, but most importantly, united in the eternal spirit of the Griffin.

In Honor~ Chairman of the Board, Bill Lenzen, announces the new name for the Vianney baseball diamond: Fr. Richard Wosman Field.

Everybody Pile In~ The soon-to-be-graduates file into the Griffin Dome for the final ceremony of their high school careers.

Happy Grads~ Ryan Ahillen, Anthony Agliata, Mark Helscher, Brian Benson, Doug Sicking, Jeff Wolf, and Dave Castro.

Show Me Where the Party's At

by Jason Nigro

The annual senior All-Night Party was held at the Webster University Rec Center in 2002. This event is a great alternative for seniors who want to celebrate their graduation safely and with style. The seniors who attended had a blast, gambling with fake money, playing some B-ball, and most of all enjoying life after high school. "I loved the blackjack and the poker tables," said senior Tom O'Connell. Attendees had many activities to choose from such as gaming tables, an obstacle course, a station where they could have a caricature drawn and a Pillow Fight game where opponents attempt to knock each other off of a pole all the while beating each other silly. There was also a pool at the rec center, open for use during the evening.

The fun and games lasted until the wee hours of Sunday morning. "Without a doubt this is one of the most anticipated events in a Griffin's career. It is a great way to celebrate such an important event in our lives," said one of Vianney's newest alumnus, Jason Nigro.

Blackjack!!! –Mike St. Cin, Nick Wilson, and Kevin McLear are having a blast playing blackjack at the senior all night party.

Over-Under– Seniors Greg Berger, Doug Sicking, Eric Fultz, Jeremy Kijowski, Joe Nolde, Chris Michael, and John Schaefer try their luck at a game called Over-Under.

Roll em– Seniors Tim Guilfoy and Mike Sheppard stare at the dice hoping not to see snake eyes.

Gettin' Beat Down~ Matt Cohen getting the tar beaten out of him by an unknown fighter, during a match at the inflatable pillow fight.

Pool Shark~ Senior Eric Oppelz prepares for a shot during a 3 a.m. pool game. We're sure he made it.

Show Me the Ring

by Jason Nigro

The juniors received their class rings in a ceremony held during a Mass on Friday, April 26th, 2002. The ceremony is a very special one because it marks the moment that the juniors become upperclassmen at Vianney. The seniors were even given the day off so that the juniors could take center stage on this, their first day as the new leaders of the school. Junior parents were invited to attend the Mass/ceremony held in the Vianney gym. The Mass is one of the longest of the year, but it is well worth it. After the ceremony, the juniors are released for the remainder of the day, so that they may spend lunch and the rest of the afternoon with their families. The Junior Ring Dance was held later that night, at Westborough Country Club, a great place to host a formal dance. Nearly the entire junior class attended the evening's festivities, and the event was considered a great success. Not a bad way to kickoff their new leadership role at Vianney.

Showing We Care

by Matthew Cohen

The junior class can almost see the light at the end of the tunnel. The Social Service Project is a requirement for graduation. This is the last hurdle to jump over, other than passing all your classes senior year, to graduate as a Vianney Griffin.

The juniors chose to perform their service at many different agencies. They ranged from hospitals to nursing homes to daycare centers to schools for people with disabilities and even to foreign countries. All of these places gave them experiences that they will not forget.

"I never realized that just talking to someone could make their day," said Adam Skaggs.

The idea of taking school time away from the juniors was in hope of their learning more about themselves and realizing their special talents. Even though not everyone was thrilled with the idea of serving or may have been a little nervous prior to their service, most walked away with a smile and had a wonderful time.

One of the most rewarding aspects to this service was being able to connect with people. Most of the people the juniors worked with didn't have fancy homes or nice looking clothes. Despite this, they managed to see the beauty in life.

The social service project was a great experience and perhaps some juniors may have found their calling in life.

New Griffins Arrive

On August 15th, 2001 over 220 freshmen started their four years here at Vianney. It was an emotional war for most freshmen. Many felt excited, nervous, scared, or really confused. Guys would always be asking "Where is this room?" or "How to you get to Maryhurst?" Most freshmen hardly knew anyone in their class or what the teachers would be like. Many were trying to adjust to the business of high school. The amount of homework increased for many and the workload was harder. Vianney held their Freshmen Orientation two days before school started. They also had some very helpful camps about what to expect and look forward to in sports. This helped a lot of young men in preparing for their favorite sport that they wanted to play.

The year went by a lot faster than expected. Coming to Vianney proved to be a rewarding choice for all freshmen. As the year progressed, guys started to relax and feel more comfortable. Their first days as a Griffin might have been nerve-racking, but it proved to be all worth it in the end. Now they can look forward to three more oustanding years here at Vianney.

Hello's and Goodbye's

by Joe Bleitner and Matt Wigand

New Teachers arrive at Vianney High School every year with great expectations for their "freshman" year of teaching. Usually, they learn a lot in the school year and improve the next year. A new tradition now has new teachers going through orientation, where they are acclimated to the Vianney style of teaching.

We say goodbye to several Vianney staff members this year including: Mr. Jerome Boeckman (retiring), Fr. Don Cahill (retiring), Mrs. Kathy Smith (moving), and Fr. Richard Wosman (seeking his doctorate). Mr. Clepper is remaining on the teaching staff but is retiring from his role as wrestling coach.

Teachers are a vital part of a successful school and this staff, both old and new, are spectacular! The Vianney faculty is dedicated to the Griffin family by going to various sports events, Griffin performances, and other activities that the students participate in. The school is truly greatful to have a faculty that go the extra mile for the Vianney Griffins.

Hard Fought Season

by Bryan Sisk & Chris Sherlock

After three weeks of two-a-days, several football camps, and summer weight lifting, the Griffins came out ready to roar! Their first game took place at Fox. After a close four quarters, Vianney came out victorious 28-22. The following game was played at C.B.C. At the end of the 1st quarter they lead by a score of 7-6. The Cadets came out strong the 2nd half and took over the lead to defeat Vianney 21-14. Vianney's other win came against the DeSmet Spartans. After double overtime, Vianney won on a spectacular field goal scored by junior kicker, Pat Kreski. By far the best game of the year was against Jackson, at the "Snake Pit" in Jackson, MO. The mighty Griffins shut down Missouri's best prospect, Mario Whitney. The final score of the game was 49-35 in Jackson's favor. Vianney scored more points against Jackson than any other team in the state by 14 points! "This season showed huge improvement in terms of attitude and execution," said Coach Gladstone. "The attitude and effort shown in the off-season is a bright light for the future."

Many records were broken this year by sophomore Tom Mulvihill, who broke the school record for receiving yards in a game with 188 against Jackson. Also, Mulvihill broke school records for receiving yards in a season (647) and catches in a game (9).

The Vianney record books also had room for sophomore Travis Hewitt, who had the 3rd highest school record for passing yards in a game (250). The Travis Hewitt to Tom Mulvihill connection broke the school record formerly held by the brother combination of Trent to Troy Green.

Strong Showing

by: Kevin Kremer and Nick Tobias

At the beginning of the season the B-football team had high expectations. They were coming off of a 6-1 season.

The high spirited Griffins arrived at Fox for their first game of the season. The Griffins proved that they could win by crushing the Fox Warriors. Though the Griffins seven game win streak (continued from last year) ended, as they lost to SLUH in a heartbreaker, and that began a four game losing skid. The Griffins then traveled to DeSmet and lost in a hard fought match. The Griffins also lost to CBC in a game of turnovers, and got beat by Parkway West. Then the Griffins got back on track by playing a solid game against Cleveland ROTC. "Once we won that first game after our four game losing streak, we stayed in that mood for the rest of the season," said Nick Kratky. They followed that game with another victory over Chaminade. The B-team then defeated Francis Howell, and ripped apart St. Mary's and DuBourg. "I feel we (our team) played well, and think that we have the experience to be a good competitive team," said wide receiver Charlie Mattingly.

With a 6-4 record the B- Griffins showed Vianney they're for real. The Griffins will hope to continue their winning ways next year on the varsity squad.

Freshman Football has come a long way since the dog days of summer. They have worked very hard all year long to be at the top. The first couple of games started off slow for the Griffins, but as they began to maintain their focus on and off the playing field, they later knew what it meant to be part of an extraordinary football team.

The Griffins first game was all the way down in Cape, where they hosted the Cape Central Tigers. The Griffins were dominated the whole game. Coach Burke understood the early loss to the great football team who had been playing together for at least two years. "He never let us hang our heads", stated Tom Stevison. He was always saying we were a better football team."

The Griffins were a better football team. They won their last six games, which they worked all year for, and that made for a great season. The Griffins proved to their coaches that winning can become easy if you just do the little things right, and that is what makes a successful football team. The Griffins are looking to come out hungry next year and are hoping to have another successful football season.

VARSITY SOCCER... An Up and Down Season!

by Mike Brannan

It all came down to the district tournament for the varsity soccer team. Posting a record of 8-9-4 going into the tournament, the Griffins were poised for an upset. This first round game was known as the "Battle of Lindbergh Boulevard." The Griffins started out on the right foot beginning districts with a win over the tough Flyers of Lindbergh High School. Vianney was ready for this one, and showed it by playing with the intensity to upset Lindbergh, after losing to them in the regular season 1-0.

Everyone was pumped for this game, the fans, the team, and the school in general. The game was back and forth, until about ten minutes left in the first half, when Erik Ustruck came off the bench, and put in a rebound by striking the ball with his forehead to give the Griff's a 1-0 lead. At the start of the second half, Lindbergh came out strong, and put a lot of pressure on Vianney, but was unable to capitalize. With just under twenty minutes left in the game, Vianney's exchange student from Mexico, Andres Maldanado beat the Flyer's defense, and buried a goal to seal the victory for Vianney. Entering the second round, the Griffins were to face crosstown rival, Oakville Tigers. While Vianney was considered the underdogs, this gave them more motivation to come out on top. As the game began, Oakville scored two quick goals to go on top 2-0. At half - time, the scored remained the same, and about ten minutes into the second half, Oakville put another goal on the board, to knock the Griffins out for the season. "We took them way too lightly. We were ready, and we choked," stated Co-Captain Kevin King.

After the loss, it brought the varsity soccer team's season to an end, leaving them 9-10-4. This year's team was very young, inexperienced, and had a lot to deal with due to injuries. The upside of this season is next year's team will be more experienced, and hopefully won't have as many injuries to deal with. Good Luck to next year's varsity soccer team!

B-Soccer: Building For Success

by Mike Colombo

This year's B-Soccer team may not have had a winning record, but they showed signs of greatness all year long. Led by team Captains Luke Schott and Yann McHale-Estaque, the team came together to make a late season run. The season got off to a rough start when John Holmes and Danny Barnidge , starters from last years squad, were sidelined with season-ending injuries. Despite these hardships, the team stayed together and gave it their all after a 10-9-1 freshman campaign. This year the B-Griffins lost only one conference game by more than two goals. This team will look to provide the Varsity squad with important pieces to fit into next years puzzle. Highlights of the season: Beating Lutheran South 7-0 and tying rival conference foe SLUH 1-1. Another reason for the hard fought season was leadership by coaches Tony Idevido and Senor Laidley who received the job just hours before tryouts. Good work B-Team, and the best of luck in the years to come.

C-Soccer Enjoys Strong Season

by Mike Cosby and Matt Bosslet

This year was a sensational first season at Vianney for the freshman soccer team. They jumped off to a quick start and finished with an amazing record of 12-3-5. The freshmen began with four wins in a row, followed by only three losses the entire season. Thanks to the talent and leadership of Rob Colombo and Andrew Roshausen, the leading scorers on the team, they held strong and managed to defeat some of the toughest competition in the league. "We could not have finished with the record we did without the leadership and great coaching of Doc Simpson," said freshman defenseman David Boschert. The team had a twelve game winning streak, which is an oustanding record for this soon-to-be-championship team.

The first seven games were very close, especially against SLUH. SLUH was tough and had a solid defense. However, the Vianney freshmen were able to defeat them in true championship style in the two games Vianney played against them. Good things are on the horizon for Griffin soccer.

Another Exciting Year of Cross Country

by Joe Caratenuto and Jon Brownfield

Most people don't enjoy running. Some people go out of their way to avoid running. Then there are those who run day and night. These select few are the Cross Country runners. Every fall you see them running around Vianney, and all over Kirkwood, and you wonder why they do it. They run for the glory of indvidual achievements and the feeling that they are part of a team. It is also a great way to get in shape. With all the effort put into the season, there were many accompishments. From the beginning of the season the Cross Country Griffs had a positive outlook on the upcoming meets. Even with all the new runners on the team they still managed to have a positive season. One of the largest accomplishments of the year was when Beau Wethington qualified for state. "It's always a successful season when you can take somebody to state, so qualifying Beau was gratifying," said an enthusiastic Coach Mohr. According to Coach, the young team that came together this year has a promising future. Even when the team hits some rough spots, they kept chugging along. The Griffin runners provided another exciting year for Vianney.

The Comeback Kids

by David Deeken & Bryan Schoelch

The Vianney Griffin Basketball team completed another great year by turning around what looked like a rebuilding year into a district title.

This year the young Griffin team's theme was "The strenght of the pack is the wolf, and the strength of the wolf is the pack." "I got this quote from a poem, and I like it because it means that our individuals are only as strong as a group and our group is only as strong as our individuals." said Head Coach Kevin Walsh.

The team was led by seniors Kevin McLear, Brian Felter, and Mark Sucher, who all filled in the leadership role throughout the season. Juniors Justin Tauser, John Laffler, Steve Walther, and Eric Reinhold contributed immensly to the teams success. "Super Sophmores" Paul Paradoski, Tom Mulvihill, Brandon Holland, and Brandon Beal rounded out the Griffin line up.

The Griffins started out slower than usual this year. "We were young and started out bad, but came together when we needed to," said Paradoski. "The beginning of the year was a struggle but we came through together and continued to work, and we became district champs because of it," said senior big man Kevin McLear.

"We did have our ups and downs, but hard work and a district win will allow us to look back on the season on a positive note," said Coach K-Walsh.

B-Griffs: Unity, Teamwork, Success

by Paul Mees

Combining two freshmen teams from the previous year, two newcomers, and a freshman big man to form a sophomore basketball team is not an easy task. "I think we came together pretty quickly," commented sophomore forward Eric Pieper.

The team's key wins both came against DeSmet. It is a rare occasion that any Vianney team should happen to beat DeSmet twice in a season, but a buzzer beater from half court and an overtime battle proved that theory wrong. "We brought our best game and outhustled DeSmet both games," stated sophomore guard Rich Henschel.

The season's most difficult losses were not always games, but instead were injuries. Point guard Nick Laffler suffered a broken ankle in practice before the start of the season." It was tough having to sit on the bench while my teammates were out there playing," Nick said. Another huge loss came with a lower back injury to Rich Henschel." In losing Rich, we lost a great shooter," declared freshman center Mike Eller.

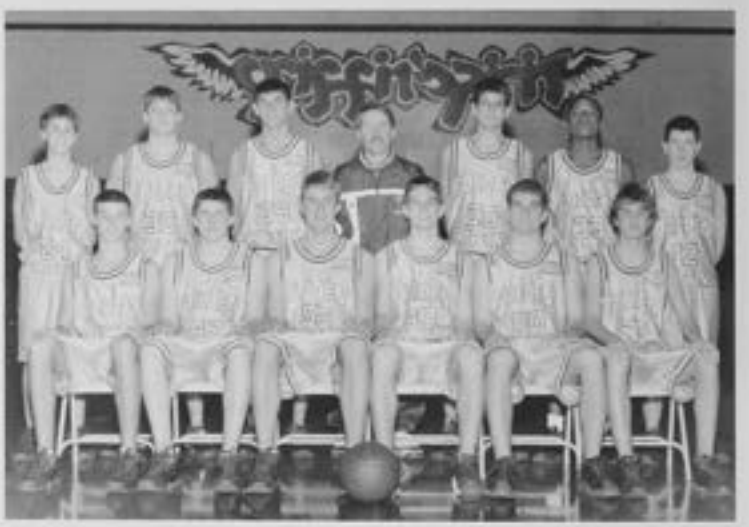

The B-Griffs finished the season with a 13-10 overall record, but a disappointing 2-6 MCC record." This season proved to be a good one. Our group of guys grew together, promoted teamwork, and won a lot of nice games," commented sophomore forward Dave Gilligan.

Swarming Defense~ Sophomore Xavier Blackwell swarms his man during an early season game against MCC rival CBC." I just wanted to get out there every day and give it my all. It is important to hustle day in and day out," exclaimed Xavier.

Fantastic Freshmen

by Tim Hentz

The freshman Black basketball team started off the season in the Webster tournament. Winning all three games of the tournament got the team going on a good note.

They didn't stop there. They charged on to win the next five games straight.

Eric Paradoski and Pat McDermott led the teams to key wins. "We played hard, and showed all the teams in the MCC that we are tough competition," said Paradoski.

With their eyes on the MCC Championship, the Black team ended the regular season 13-4. They stormed the conference competition, and came out MCC Champs with a record of 6-2.

The freshman Gold team was also very successful, beating SLUH, their toughest competition. "Together as a team we worked hard through the season. I am happy with the success of the team and look forward to working with them next year," said Coach Tabash.

"We knew what our goals were at the beginning of the season and worked hard to achieve them," said Pat McDermott after being asked to reflect on the Gold team's season.

The teams both had successful seasons, and we hope their talents will produce more success next year.

Walking into the Maryhurst building one of the first things you notice are the mats covering the entire floor and the smell of determination, (or sweat if that's what you want to call it) of many hardworking wrestlers overpowers you. With only one dual meet win over Mehlville the team was disappointed with their 2001-2002 performance. "I tried to end my last year here with a lot of victories but things don't work out as planned," said Senior Dan Madigan. But with determination and hardwork P.J. Morales, Jim Walsh, and Steve Gloriod represented Vianney at Sectionals. Jim Walsh made it all the way to the State Championships in Columbia. He placed second in Districts and finished third in Sectionals. In the State Tournament Jim finished in the top eight in the 152-lb weight class division. "Since this was my last year here at Vianney I worked twice as hard to get where I got," said Jim. At the beginning of the year Coach Clepper announced that this would be his last season as the head wrestling coach. Thank you Coach Clepper for 25 years of coaching excellence.

Showing Courage and Strength

by Nick Russo

For some athletes the beginning of the junior varsity wrestling season was full of questions. They were wondering if they could improve on the previous year's success. Other, first-time wrestlers, were wondering what wrestling would be like. Those first year guys caught on quickly enough. By the middle of the season, they were fighting for positions along with the rest of the team.

The season started off strong enough with three straight duel meet victories over Hazelwood Central, McCluer North, and Belleville East. The team, as a whole, looked strong. By the end of the season, all of the members of the junior varsity squad had an impact, and they had improved as a team. Some even made the move up to varsity throughout the 2002 season.

Some of the most outstanding junior varsity wrestlers were: Tommy Donovan, Andy Suda, and Dan Gillick.

Showing Pride and Determination

by Nick Russo

The freshman wrestling team made great strides throughout the 2002 season. Many of the freshmen were first year wrestlers who had to prepare themselves for one of the most physically demanding sports around. When the season ended at the Metro Catholic Conference Championships, the team had eleven of fourteen wrestlers win medals. "All year we shoot for improving and becoming better as the season goes on, and we did exactly that," said Coach Burke.

The team said that Coach Burke and Coach Bieser made each wrestler even better than before. "I've never wrestled before," said Nick Rose, "but I learned a lot this season."

The team fought with determination and hard work and it sounds like they had fun as well. "I had a great time," said Jimmy Nguyen, "the coaches were great too. I think they will help future wrestlers."

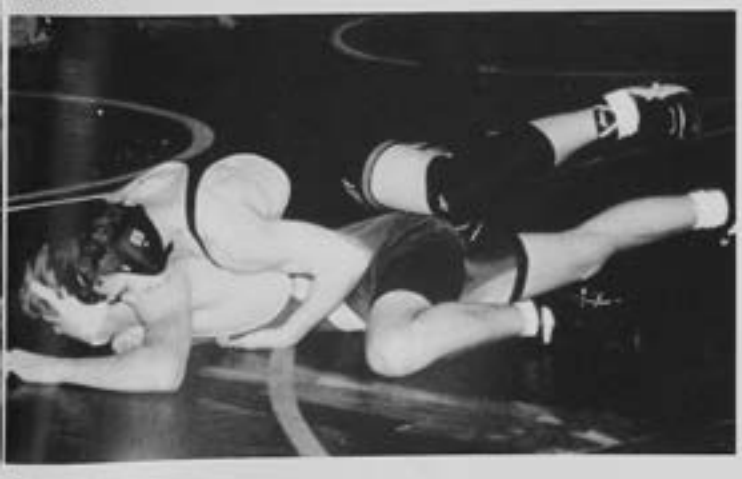

Some of the team's most outstanding wrestlers were, Nick Albright(15-3), Kyle Goldkuhl(12-2), Kyle Shaw(15-6), David Robb(14-5), and Matt Ellis(12-9).

Skating On Thin Ice

by Joe Basler and Steve Dudak

Finishing the season with an 11-10-3 record, the varsity ice hockey team encountered an up and down year. Placing second in the Ladue Tournament and winning the Rockwood Summit Tournament, hopes were high and a return to the Savvis Center was in the future. All season long, injuries plagued the team. Seniors Joe Leiendecker, Jack Fleming, and sophomore Richie Estopare paced the team not only in scoring but also with their leadership. After finishing the regular season a game over .500, the varsity Griffins were seeded 10th in the Mid-States Challenge Cup Tournament. After dominating McCluer North in Round 1, the Griffin's hopes of returning to the Savvis were shattered by MCC rival SLUH in Round 2. "It was a rough season but we hope to build off of it and do better next season," said junior Anthony Calcaterra. The JV team ended its season 6-7-2, including two tournament championships in the Webster Groves and DeSmet Tournaments. The C-team finished up with an 8-11-3 record. With the young talent coming up from the C and JV teams next year, hope of a return to the Savvis Center seems more likely.

Another Successful Year

by Steven Grana

The varsity racquetball team got off to a great start this year with three straight wins. Things were looking good for the team and it looked like they had a good shot at winning state for the second year in a row. The varsity team consist of seed one - senior Phil Alles, seed two - Senior captain Ryan Ahillen, seed three - Senior Ryan Finke, seed four - Junior Ryan Glasscock, seed five - Junior Drew Finke, seed six - Junior Steve Grana, and an undefeated doubles team made up of juniors Steve Patti and David Deno. The team looked especially strong this year and was making its mark in defeating the number one team, SLUH by a score of 4 -3. Things were looking up going into the state tournament, but the Griffins were devastated after taking a tough fourth place to end the season. Phil Alles finished third, Ryan Finke finished fourth, Ryan Glasscock finished second, Drew Finke finished third, Steve Grana finished third and the Steve Patti and David Deno finished third. " We would have liked to place higher in state, but with the teams being so even whoever was having their best day was going to win," said Senior Phil Alles. "Overall it was a good season despite the team placing fourth in state. Vianney should have a strong team next year." "It was a great season and I had a lot of fun leading and playing with these guys," said senior captain Ryan Ahillen. "I hope they finish even better next year." The Griffins finished with a great deal accomplished. They had a great season and should have a solid one next year as well.

Swimmers Get It Together

by Beau Wethington

The Vianney Swimming and Diving team delivered several strong performances this year including a fourth place showing at the MCCs against many state powerhouses. "It was a tremendous year. We met a lot of our goals, but fell short in a couple areas considering we swim probably the toughest schedule in the state." Says Head Coach Doc Simpson

The 2001-2002 season was one of huge effort and improvement for the Guppies. They went from a 2-12 record the previous year to a 8-9 record this year. The giant turnaround was led by seniors Dan Hunzeker, Tom Gordon, Anthony Agliata, Marco Kramer, Chris Hart, Greg Berger and Dan Backer.

The returning members of the swim team have set the expectations for next season very high, and they should be very competitive with strong sophomore and junior classes, and an exceptionally talented freshman squad. Adam Wiesehan, Peter Suardi, Joe Wilson and Tim Adams hope to post state qualifying times and lead their team against the tough area compe-

All the Way to State

by Frank Henry and Alex Gordon

The 2002 Griffin baseball squad will go down as one of the most successful in Vianney history. At the season's midpoint, it didn't look as if the team would meet its lofty expectations. The team stood at .500 and had more questions than answers, but after rattling off a five-game winning streak late in the year and making a surge into the state playoffs, they made their place in Vianney history.

The 2002 season began stong by beating Northwest and Francis Howell in convincing fashion. But throughout the middle of the season the Griffins were unable to string together more than two victories in a row. When the team had posted an 8-8 record, Coach Ryan Rhea was quoted as saying, "The second part of our season is our chance to turn the season around, and be as good as we know we can be." Well the Griffins did exactly that. They rattled off wins against St. Mary's, Chaminade, Parkway North, and Lindbergh. The Griffin's fifth win of the streak was to three time district champ Oakville. This was Vianney's first district championship since 1996.

The Griff's then took on Marquette, a team they lost to 18-1 earlier in the year, in the sectional game. Behind an outstanding pitching performance by Tom Cowley and timely hitting, Vianney came out on top 4-1. They next took on Northwest House Springs in a sectional game in which the Griffins played one of their most complete games of the season. The Griffins were definitely peaking at the right time. The win earned them a trip to the state semifinals in Columbia where they lost a heartbreaker to Francis Howell North 4-3. In the third place game the Griffins showed what they were made of by handling Lebanon 5-2.

At the beginning of the season the baseball Griffs had high hopes. By the season's midpoint the team had a lot of questions. But by the end of the season, when it really counted, the Griffins reached those high expectations by placing third in the state of Missouri.

Celebration – The boys of summer celebrate their victory over Marquette in the state playoffs. The Griffins came out on top 4-1 and advanced to the state Quarterfinals the following week.

Hitting Their Way to Success

by Paul Mees

When tryouts began in February the possibilities for the team were uncertain. So much talent, new faces, and a new coach were all part of the equation of this team. "I remember walking into tryouts and not even being able to think of who would make the team," said sophomore second basemen Nick Pagano. "We had some newcomers this year that really contributed and made their presence felt."

The B-Griffs opened the season with a loss to Francis Howell, but the next three decisions proved that they might have something going with wins over Chaminade, Fox, and SLUH.

The rest of the season was more of a blur with wins and losses sporadically coming here and there. " We didn't play like we really wanted to, but as a team I think we learned a lot," commented sophomore Nick Kratky. A late season game against Chaminade plated 38 runs between the two teams, but Vianney fell short 20-18 despite two Richie Estopare home runs. " It was a fun season and a great learning experience being able to be coached by someone who has played at the professional level (Steve Bieser)," exclaimed sophomore Tim Powderly. Congratulations for a hard fought season by the Griffin B-Baseball Team.

The freshman baseball team came out firing in 2002 by winning five of their first seven games. The next three games were hard fought losses against St.Mary's 6-5, DeSmet 11-2, and Lutheran South 4-2. After that stretch their record fell back to .500. Next up the freshmen team played in the Parkway South Tournament where they took on all of the Parkway schools West, South, Central, and North. The freshmen went 2-2, with stellar performances against Parkway West 13-5, and Parkway North in an 11-1 win.

"We had a great season," stated Mike Schepers, a pitcher for the team, "but we should have done better."

The team had some trouble actually playing the games in the spring because of all of the rain. Because of this some games were unable to be made up.

Some of the key players on the freshman pitching staff were Tom Stevison, Ken Bollwerk, and Nick Cowley. On the offensive side of the field some top players at the plate were Kyle Shaw and Tony Spencer.

" We had a good season," said Coach Alexander, "We could have easily been 12-2 or 11-3 if we had gotten some more runs."

Show Me Six Straight State Titles!!!!!!

by Jeff Basler & Nick Cristel

The Griffin volleyball team did it yet again. After losing the first game in the state championship against DeSmet, the Griffins rallied back to win their 6th consecutive state championship.This game will go down as one of the most dramatic wins in the team's history. The Griffins played hard all year long. Whether it was during practice or in the state championship game, the team never gave up. According to freshman John Gitto, "The season was a great experience and it was great learning from the seniors, especially Mark Greaves". Freshman Steve Klipsch also added, "Learning from the older, more experienced players helped me a lot. It was really good having them teach me more about the game". Every member of the team agrees that the highlight of the season was coming back from six points down, to win the state championship in a dramatic fashion. According to John Gitto, "It was great coming back that last game and having the fans storm the court. I hope every state title we get while I am here feels as good as this one!"

Preparing for Greatness

by Jeff Basler & Nick Cristel

The Junior Varsity volleyball team had yet another productive season in 2002. Coached by Jeff Cheak, the team was as dominating as the JV teams in the past, finishing the season strong with 19-2 record.

According to freshman Mike McLear, the season was "Very fun. After losing to DeSmet and SLUH we came back and rolled over every other team we played." That is exactly what they did. After those two losses the team really started to pick up the pace. They worked harder, on and off the court, to make sure they won the rest of their games.

Matt Tissi states, "The season was really neat! We worked hard as a team, we played hard as a team, an we ended up being a good team."

These Junior Varsity players know that they will be expected to be the best that they can be next year in order to preserve the volleyball tradition that has been established here at Vianney. It looks as though the future of Vianney volleyball is as strong as ever with this young talent.

Swinging Away at the Competition

by Jeff Basler and Nick Cristel

The Vianney golf team, led by Team Captain Matt Etling, had high hopes going into the 2002 season. Although they did not fair quite as well as orginal expectations, there was still a fair share of bright spots for the Griffin golf team. Matt Etling finished the season with a nine-hole average of 39.8, and a surprisingly good performance from freshman Alex Maurer who played on the varsity squad. "I just go out there every day and do the best I can do" says Maurer.

The Junior Varsity team finished somewhat better than varsity receiving strong performances from freshman Andrew Hoy, who participated on both the JV and varsity squads, and freshman Dan Horn who did the same. With the talent these young guys have the future certainly does look good for the Vianney golf team, look for them to compete for the MCC championship in years to come.

Stepping Up

by Andy Suda

The varsity track squad had a year filled with tough competition, but came out with a successful season. The 4x800 team led by Tim Hentz, Ryan Broekelmann, Tom Gordon, and Brian Benson placed 6th in Sectionals and Junior Dave Borchardt made it all the way to the state meet.

"This year we had a lot of ups and downs," said Head Track Coach John Mohr. "In 2002 we had too many injuries to be consistent, but we had good performances. There were a lot of young athletes that contributed which looks good for the future."

Because the team competes in the Metro Catholic Conference, it helped them to prepare for an end-of-the-year push.

"With so many quality athletes we were able to move people around a lot,and it really helped at the conference meet"said Coach Mohr. Leading the Griffins through this year were captains Tom Gordon and Nick Frei.

Junior Dave Borchardt was the teams best chance for a medal at the State Track Championships and Dave didn't disappoint. He saved his best throw of the year for his last throw. He threw the discus 169 feet, to place second in the state, an oustanding achievement!

Overall the varsity track team had a successful 2002 season.

Turning in Great Performances

by Tim Hentz

The JV and C-track teams turned in some great performances this year. The teams worked hard all season to defeat some of the toughest competition in the MCC and the St. Louis area. The JV long distance team was led by Keith Goltschman, while the JV sprint team was led by freshmen Tony Signaigo and Justin Saguto. Tony Signaigo also participated in the Varsity District meet at Eureka. "I think the JV sprint team has a lot of potential for next season, and I look forward to working with them next year," said Coach Farrell. In the first meet of the year the JV squad started off with a great 2nd place finish vs. St. Mary's and Chaminade. "We had a really good year, and I improved my times as the season progressed," said Tony Signaigo. The C-team kept its momentum going by also putting out spectacular performances every time they stepped out onto the track. The C-team was led by Ben Lauber, Joe Steinkamp, and Mark Konersmann. "I am very happy with my input to the team's successes this season, and look forward to my future running career," said Ben Lauber. The future looks bright for the Vianney Track squad in years to come.

Tennis is a Smash!

by Danny Barnidge

Determination paid off as the Vianney Griffin tennis team greatly improved on last seasons 8-8 record by dominating their opponents throughout the 2002 campaign. "We had a very good year. I am a little disappointed that we didn't finish better in the MCC since we finished with the best record in the conference, but sometimes that happens I guess." said sophomore Kevin Brightman. The Griffins were led by Senior Matt Brightman and junior Tony Guarino as they led Vianney to a 9-2 record. "Coach told us he thought we could be pretty good. After the first day I think most of us knew it. I could tell we looked like we would be a tough opponent this season. Everyone seemed to concentrate more on the upcoming season than last year. It was nice to see that." said sophomore Mike Seagrass.

The tennis team was represented by junior Tony Guarino's strong season that earned him a spot in the state tournament.

Masters of the Lanes

by Alex Gordon

Interest in the bowling team reached an all-time-high in 2002. There were enough people that went out for the team that 3 teams of 7 were made.

The 2002 season was unpredictable, because of the new districts. The team realized they had a good shot this year. The season started off well but then the wins were hard to come by. All three teams had a shot at winning a second Conference Championship for the school. The C team made it to the 2nd round while the A team missed the cut by 59 pins. "The C team showed good potential and gave it all they had to the end." said Head Coach Jim Hankemeyer. Mr. Hankemeyer coached both A and B teams, but this year he said 3 is enough. He scanned the lanes and found veteran B team bowler Eric Gordon who ended up coaching the B team. Joe Gordon, Eric Gordon's father coached the C team.

Even though Vianney wasn't picked to come out on top they put up a good fight. The winner of the Conference Championship was Francis Howell North. "Even though we lost the tournament we still gave it all we had," says team member Ryan Argent.

In the fall of 2001 director Al Book organized and put on the show "Arsenic and Old Lace". Gathering talented actors and actresses from Vianney, Ursuline, DuBourg, and Villa made this 1940's comedy complete.

What do you get when you mix two of the sweetest old ladies to walk the earth with, poison, and murders? The correct answer would be a side tickling comedy written by Joseph Kesselring.

"I chose this show because I have close emotional ties to it. I performed this show professionally for years" said Al Book.

This play was a lot less challenging than last fall's production of "A Man For All Seasons.""Going from a drama back to a comedy was a lot easier and more fun. I had a great time even though I got sick the week before we opened," said Steve Barnowski, who played the lead character Mortimer.

With a small cast of only 14 people, 11 of whom were Vianney guys, it was a lot easier to make friendships and have fun on and off stage. "I'm really glad I got to have a small role in the show so I could enjoy myself and still put on a stellar performance. I also had a lot of fun with other cast members. Thanks guys," Steve Hromadka commented. This was Steve's first show.

The people who did the most work were those behind the stage. The crew had a lot of cues they had to know, which means they had to pay attention while still dealing with the hassle of handling props and telling cast members when they go on.

A great thanks goes out to everybody who contributed to the show, from the cast and crew, to the set designers and ushers. Thanks to all, you are the people who made the show come together.

A personal thank you goes out to director Al Book. Thank you for your tolerance and ultimate theatrical wisdom.

The cast and crew would also like to thank everyone who came and watched the show and supported the Griffins.

OKLAHOMA!!!

by Mike Badolato

The audience rose from their seats and burst into applause as the final production of the Griffin Theatre's spring musical 'Oklahoma!' came to an outstanding close.

Talent and hard work was the combination that made this year's performance a success, as the cast played flawlessly for four straight nights. Weeks before the first production the cast rehearsed endlessly for these four performances.

With an audiance of 405 on Thursday and Friday, and one of 382 on the weekend, this musical was enjoyed by an abundance of family members, friends, students and faculty.

"The actors we have in the play never cease to amaze me," said the house manager, Jesse Schwab.

"This is my first play at Vianney," said sophomore actor Joe Wilson (Fred), "and it's really fun."

One thing was obvious, the young actors had pulled off a successful performance, and as the drama wound down all were left with the memories and pride of a job extremely well done.

Reaching Out to the Community

Vianney is well represented in the community by the various services performed through Campus Ministry. One of the most important parts of Vianney is building faith, and growing as mature individuals. Campus Ministry helps achieve both. Campus Ministry is responsible for preparing school liturgies, the prayers that are read every morning and at the end of the day on announcements, organizing food and blood drives, and for organizing class retreats.

* Vianney students have given over 17,000 hours to serve the community
* 9-11 collection by Lettermen's club $6200
* Blanket Drive by Lettermen's club $1253 and 53 blankets
* Blood Drive 72 units of blood and Plasma
* Habitat for Humanity
* Toy Drive
* Penny Challenge ($2480.12)

Mr. Joe Pecaut leads the Vianney Campus Ministry effort and is constantly arranging and organizing events. The largest project that they organize is the social service project. This is truly a service that impacts the St. Louis community. In the information box to the left, you can see how much the Vianney family truly helps those in need in our community as well as world wide. Campus Ministry is a big part of the Vianney family.

Short Season Toughens Griffins for Future

by Jesse Drury

This year's mock trial team was larger and held more promise than ever. In its third season, with two teams and with five mock trial veterans returning for a third year, hopes were high that Vianney would compete for a state title. However, a mistake was made in the roster and the "varsity" team was forced to forfeit the first round. Both teams tried hard, but the inexperienced mock trial Griffins didn't turn on their real talents until late in the season, and the veteran Griffin lawyers took too big a hit with forfeit to continue into district competition.

The year was a disappointment for senior mock trial members, who had tasted districts the previous year. Matt Duchek, Jesse Drury, and Jeff Miller, seniors who have competed on Vianney's mock trail team for three years, will be leaving the team in good hands. The future looks bright for Vianney's team, led by veteran junior Jeff Evitts and sophomore Joe Ackermann, with the large number of underclassmen participating the following years should produce much excitement.

A Year of Color

by Mike Badolato

It all begins with an idea; the rest is left to the artist. Looking around Vianney it's hard to miss the products of our dedicated artistic students. Whether it's on a T-shirt, a club's sign, or drawing attention to the wall in the library, something always catches a person's eye and leads them to wonder, "Who did that?" If you have taken the time to look at the signature in the corner, then perhaps you've realized that the walls of Vianney serve as a palate for a great number of Griffin artists.

Vianney's Art Club is truly unique. It has only one requirement: that you want to be there. A student can sketch his favorite car or paint a model's portrait; it's a club that's completely left to the will of its members. "Art club is a great opportunity for all students, whether they're in an art class or not," said Ms. Colleen Judge, "[they can] do artwork in a relaxed setting during encore periods or after school."

This year Vianney's artists pushed themselves forward to showcase their talent. Dave Castro, Mike Crockwell, John Schaefer, Alex Fortune, Matt Ortinau, Dave Jackson, Jack Schurk, Eric Fultz, Dave Meyer, Adam Molloy, Adam Hock, and Mike Badolato all had work placed in an art exhibit at South County Mall celebrating Catholic Schools Week. Mike Badolato was selected for a spot in the Missouri Fine Arts Academy, where he joined other gifted artists from around the state for a three-week summer program at Southwest Missouri State University.

So, look back on this year and remember our artists as having been dedicated, hard workers. These artists, using a few small pieces of creativity, put on display the deepest elements of their imaginations. Their work has brightened our hallways, liturgies library and an occasional T-shirt. "It's a great experience to have all of your hard work put on display for all to see and appreciate," said Mike Badolato.

One, and a Two, and a Three

by Steven Grana

This year began the same as every year. The sound of the Vianney band filled the athletic fields and the gym with its ample melodies.

The band is made up of all classes. There are nearly eighty members in the Griffin Band. "I really like the looks of the band this year," says Sophomore Mike Seagrass. "Even though we are losing some key seniors next year, we will hopefully be pretty good."

From football games to basketball games to plays and concerts, the band was there to help cheer or bring a musical to life. They also formed a jazz band this year that was a huge success.

"I try to get involved with as many band activities as possible and enjoy playing no matter where it is or what it is for. I am really going to miss this band next year," Marty Andrews, senior and member of the jazz band said.

The band has always been extremely strong and always fun to listen to. The director, Mr. Jim Neyer, did a great job organizing and picking great music for the band to play. The band had a great year with many accomplishments.

Show me Memories

by Tom O'Connell

Filling big shoes, the publications staff took on the Griffin and Talon with dedication. The year started off slowly with a brand new advisor, Mr. Burke, and a mostly brand new staff. Nevertheless, the dedicated crew managed to get through a few bumps at the beginning and put out a quality yearbook and newspaper by the end of the year.

"It was hard learning the programs and getting things together early in the year, but I picked up on what needed to get done quickly," said Mr. Burke.

The newspaper started out as and eight-page publication, and by the end of the year, became the equivalent of sixteen pages on newspaper print.

On Saturday, June 8th, this article was written, weeks after school was let out. Talk about dedication! The yearbook staff spent many Saturdays and extra hours during the summer to get the Talon completed. Putting three hundred and sixty-five days into one-hundred and sixty-eight pages is not an easy or quick task.

"I have to be honest. At the beginning of the year, I didn't think the yearbook could get done. As I sit here on June 8th, one month after I've been out of school, I still don't. Despite that, I still punch away at the keys in hope of finally saying that my service to Vianney publications has come to an end. Four years of late nights, and Fortel's pizza have been worth it," said Tom O'Connell.

Often overlooked, the Griffin and Talon remain quality high school publications.

Take Five~ Mr. Mark Murphy enjoys his morning meal. As last year's advisor, Mr. Murphy came back to Vianney a few times to help out this year's staff. "I was really impressed with what these guys were able to do this year," he said.

Will He Ever Leave?~ Joe Gadell '99, yearbook legend, works on another world-famous Gadell masterpiece. "I thought I graduated," he said, "but I find myself back here every year putting pages together. I'm addicted." CONGRATS!! Joe has set a new Vianney record with seven consecutive years of yearbook excellence!

Hmmm...~ The yearbook staff tries to decide what ingredients to get on its pizza. "I'm a bacon boy, but Mr. Burke likes all that fungus and green stuff. Nigro only eats cheese...what a waste! Over the course of the year, we had to make many decisions. But it's impossible; how are eight people supposed to agree on a place to get the pizza, and then toppings! It's hard work," said Tom O'Connell.

Who's Helping Whom?~ Brian Nigro offers Mr. Burke some ecouragement. Later, Mr. Burke shows "Lil' Nigro" the finer points of page design. "We had a great staff," said Mr. Burke.

The Master~ Publications guru Tom O'Connell designs this very page. "Yearbook's a pain in the neck, but I learned a lot. For example, who else knows what a pica is?" he asked.

Mastering the Game

by Zach Franz

Though other sports and activities may delve into and out of success year after year, the Vianney chess team has somehow managed to perform well in every competition, every single year.

Though it played some tough matches, the team's accomplishments greatly overshadowed its difficulties. Shutouts against Parkway Central, DeSmet, and John Burroughs highlighted the season, as well as blowout victories over Valley Park (23-7) and Westminster (25-5). The team's best match may have been one it didn't win. With a 15-15 tie against Parkway South, Vianney showed that they could match up with the best team in the league.

As far as tournaments go, the chess team deserves a lot of credit for it's accomplishments. Vianney proved it's ability to stand tall by finishing fourth in both the Chaminade and Parkway South tournaments, second at Westminster, and first at the Belleville East tournament.

In the biggest competition of the year, the chess team lived up to its reputation with an outstanding performance. At Nationals in Louisville, Kentucky, the group finished fifth out of eighty teams from twenty-nine different states. In the under 1300 team, Senior Chris Hart led the way with four and a half points. As for the under 1000 level, Ryan Oge stole the show with an impressive six wins.

Hart and Soul ~ As the senior leader of the chess club, Chris Hart has commanded the top spot on the team with much poise and confidence. However, he doesn't let it go to his head. "I try not to get into the psychological part of the game," stated Hart. "It helps me stay focused."

Piece of Mind

It is widely known that Vianney's chess players are among the coolest social customers around. However, they may know other people, but do they have a close relationship with their best buddies, their chess pieces? Whether they do or not, here are a few of their favorites.

"The queen, because she can move a lot."
-Anonymous

"Knights, because they can hop over things."
-Pat Freeman

"The rook, because it looks like a castle."
-Chris Van de Riet

"The knight, because it's the weirdest moving piece and it can do the most damage."
-Kevin Curran

"That's the dumbest question I've ever heard."

Gotcha! The photography club has once again done a great job of capturing all the faces of Vianney this year. Such a feat is nothing new here. The club was started way back in 1960 on the first day of the school. Although as time goes by, not a whole lot has changed in the photo lab. The majority of the pictures come from black and white negatives run through one of two Beseler classic enlargers.

The photo is transferred through four different chemicals, run through clean water, and then laid out to dry. You may even say we treat the pictures instead of make them because all processing work is done on an old autopsy table that was donated to the school years ago. "Where is the photo lab?" many have asked. It's located catty-corner to the library and next to the bathroom in the one hundred hallway. Thanks to Mr. Tom Stevison for his continued guidance and to seniors Dan Backer, Matt Cohen, Dave Rogers, and Scott Yackey for four years of captured memories.

Habitat for Humanity Building for the Future

by Jeff Basler & Nick Cristel

Every year a group of about ten students from Vianney give up their Saturdays to help those in need. This year was no different. A group of Vianney students gave up their time to build a house for the Wood Family. Habitat for Humanity volunteers do not simply build a house for someone, though; they build the house and only charge the family for the cost of materials. The work on Saturdays usually lasts about four or five hours, and the students and faculty involved work hard until their work is through. "I enjoyed helping the family and got a lot out of helping others less fortunate than me" said freshman Josh Covert.

The slogan for Habitat for Humanity is "Building for the Future," and this is exactly what they did. Not a single member of the Wood family had ever before had a place they could call home, and they will never forget the handful of Vianney students and faculty who gave them this house. "I think everyone should take part in this; it's rewarding for you and the family you help," said Josh Covert. When you take part in Habitat for Humanity, you are not just building a house, but building a family's dream.

Leading Us Here and Now

by Mike Badolato

Without them the student body would have no representation. The Student Council is what gets not only the officers, but every student at Vianney, involved in the way this school works.

The officers are elected by us and for us, and the job is not one that can be entrusted to just anyone. They must understand what the student's want and be able to present the needs in workable options. They must be intelligent enough to handle the responsibility of the job and at the same time keep up their school work, extracurricular activities and personal lives.

Some people may not realize the effects of Student Council around Vianney and that's probably the way that it should be. They give us everything that we could ever ask for, and almost never ask for a gracious 'thank you' once it has been done.

It is an honor to be elected; they are considered some of the school's brightest and most talented students. They are those who we recognize in the hallways not only as leaders and role models, but also as friends.

Look for their influence during Spirit Week, and the numerous dances and mixers; see them at the pep rallies and greeting you every morning over the intercom.

"It's a pleasure to represent my class in such a way that I can make a difference," said Nick Amelung, "and we hope that we can keep working hard in the upcoming years to make Vianney a better place."

Over the years it's been obvious that the Student Council at Vianney really does make a difference in the activities and programs that the students interact in; this year was no different as our representatives created an atmosphere that made Vianney perhaps just a little better than the year before.

Business. The world revolves around it. Every year a handful of Vianney students participate in the Future Business Leaders of America competition and over the years it has proven an invaluable experience.

The FBLA competition is held every year at Meramec Community College. Each student can choose two divisions, from a large list, to compete in. The divisions include: Accounting, Business Calculations, Desktop Publishing, Business Law, Impromptu speaking, and Entrepreneurship. However, these are just a few divisions that the members can choose from.

This year, Senior Steve Gloriod placed first in Business Law along with Junior Adam Skaggs, who placed first in Impromptu Speaking, making this year an excellent one for both the club and its memebers.

The talented young men of the FBLA are sure to have future success in whatever they do, and their participation provided great experience on which they can build on any of their future endeavors.

It is a privilege to participate in a club at any high school. The talented students involved at Vianney, this year, focused on three main academic clubs, the National Honor Society, the Spanish Honor Society, and the German Honor Society. Each of these clubs did their part in helping make the community a much better place to live.

The National Honor Society, headed by Mr. Eisele and Mr. O'Toole and run by President Scott Yackey, VP Tom Vehige, and Junior officers Jeff Evitts and Matt Kuse, helped students struggling in certain areas of their studies by giving up their time to tutor their classmates. They also helped to set up for College Night, in which universities from around the U.S. came to Vianney to give out information about their school. "I had a good time in the NHS. I look forward to next year," said junior officer Jeff Evitts.

The Spanish Honor Society was moderated by Ms. O'Connell and Mrs. Fullenkamp and run by President Tony Dacey. They helped raise $869.69 for the annual AIDS awareness collection, setting a new school record. "We were very proud to set the school record for the AIDS collection. We really showed up STUCO when it comes to collections," said Tony. They also sponsored a "hats on day" to help raise money for kids with cancer. All the proceeds from their bake sale went to help a girl in Guatemala go to school.

In its second year at Vianney, the German Honor Society, headed by Mrs. Elder, sponsored "Pennies for Pizza," raising money for leukemia. "It took a long time counting all the money, but it was worth it, knowing that it was for a good cause," said next year's President Scott Krajacic.

Each year, the Architectural Drawing class makes its annual trip to the Mackey & Mitchell Associates architecture firm downtown by Union Station. While there, Paul Wuennenburg, a Vianney alumnus, explains to them what their final project will be for the semester.

This year's project was to design a new student center for Washington University. There were many requirements to be met, such as a fitness center, a lounge, and dining for 600 or more. A few students went to the campus to take pictures of the surrounding area. Even staying 8 hours after school didn't stop some of the groups from wanting to win the contest. All of the hard work and effort showed the night of the contest.

Jon Seagrass, Alex Whelchel, and Dave Jackson, (SW&J Architecture and Design Associates), were chosen to have the best design. "It was a very fun experience, but it took a lot of work to get where we did," said senior Jon Seagrass. "Mr. Farrell is a great teacher and he made this class fun for all of us."

A New Beginning: Scott Yackey's 2002 Valedictorian Address

Father Wosman, Mr. Lenzen, administrators, faculty, parents, friends, and fellow classmates:

On this eighteenth day of May 2002, we are turning over a page in our lives. Today is the last page of our high school careers. We have finished the most wonderful chapter in our lives to date. And although we can never return to the way life was before or during, we will always have the memories. I find this difficult to say, for in my mind this is not an end. This day is only a transition. We are leaving behind our childhood in search of new possibilities and freedoms as men. We are standing on the threshold. Behind us lays our past, our undeniable and static history that has brought us to this point and has made us who we are. And before us is a blank page of opportunity. Our future is now open for business. Although our future is influenced by our past, it is completely moldable in our minds and in our hands.

Our Vianney education has given us the tools to shape our lives into whatever we wish. The possibilities are endless, for the education that we have received is invaluable. The tool of education rests not only in the facts and formulas, but in the experiences and insights we have gained into our world. It was said, some say by Einstein, that "Education is that which remains, if one has forgotten everything he learned in school." Whoever spoke these words was right. The material may not last, but the hard work and effort that was put into learning the facts is the enduring lesson of life.

I am learning, albeit maybe a bit too late, that there is no grade in life. You cannot study for the tests that life will throw at you. There is no preparation or review session for what lies ahead in life. The future is not written. And our past is only a reference and a guide, that which still lives on in our minds and hearts. Do not dwell on what the future may bring, for worrying about it wastes the precious time of the present. Walk forward into the rest of your life with your head held high, and may confidence be your key to success.

We leave these doors with hope for the future and a sense of satisfaction and assurance that our four years here at Vianney were productive, worthwhile, and amazing. Things have changed during our time here, for better and for worse, yet I hope each and every one of us can see that our expectations in coming to Vianney have been met. Things happen for a reason, and many times we do not know why or how things will work out, yet they always do. And I am thankful for choosing Vianney as my place to grow. It has been an amazing four years. Yet I believe that this last year has been the greatest. All of my efforts have paid off, and I can finally see ahead to the wonderful and exciting life that lies before me, whatever it may bring. I am happy to be at this beginning with an open and strong mind.

As we begin this new chapter in our lives, we must not forget who has brought us this far. We thank our parents and family for continually showing us how to live as gentlemen. They have been our shelter and guide, leading us to live today the best that we can. And through their experience and accomplishments, they show us daily that life continues on its winding path even if we have trouble seeing past tomorrow. Your lessons given and example followed have helped us immeasurably, and will help us far into the future.

To our teachers, thank you for sharing your most personal part of you with us, your minds. For four years, you poured out the most valuable resource in this world, your knowledge. To teach is a great sign of love. Your success comes with our success. You sacrifice the gifts you have been given in order for us to achieve greatness. All of you educate the leaders of tomorrow.

We thank our friends for allowing us to forget school and showing us that life outside of it has a remarkable story. We thank all of you for giving us the freedom and the opportunity to have the time of our lives.

And to you, God, thank you for showing us miraculous love. We have been truly blessed. You and the people you have brought into our lives make it all worthwhile. We are indebted to you.

Let life proceed.
