Nick Gier plays the ball to the front of the court.

"The decision the team made to support Ryan and A.J. at the varsity level was a big step up for most of the other varsity players compared to the positions they held last year. Without those players who stepped up to the challenge of playing at the varsity level, Ryan and A.J. would have never been able to play the level of competition they did. This also allowed the team to set up a great building block for next year."

Griffin Theatre Presents : The Lion in the Winter

The Lion In Winter takes place during the reign of Henry II-who must choose an heir to the throne among his three sons. Complicating matters is Phillip-King of France, his sister Alais and Henry's wife Eleanor.

"Handle me with iron gloves." Richard (to Eleanor).

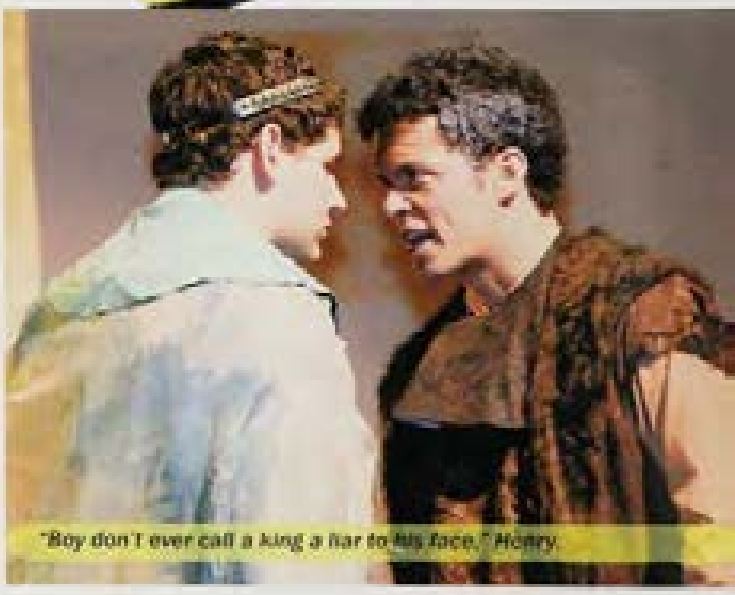

"We could tangle spiders in the webs you weave." Richard (to Eleanor).

"Now what's the nothing Geoffrey [illegible]?" Geoffrey (to Eleanor).

"What shall we hang, the holly or each other?" -Henry (with Alais and family).

"Boy don't ever call a king a liar to his face." Henry

"The challenge for the actor is to bring the historical figure to life. We need to understand each of these historical characters as living, breathing, human beings. History is about people, just like us, not just dates and timelines."
– Mr. Book

The Lion In Winter was the first Griffin Theatre production to take place over two weekends.

Fantastick!

Griffin Theatre Had a Rare Treat for Winter Theatre-goers.

"For the story is not ended until we've all been burnished a bit by the sun." ~El Gallo

"Get out of my garden, shucklebag"

The Fantasticks tells the story of two fathers who scheme to get their children together. But once the couple is united, the real drama begins!

"You mean it wasn't real? The Bandit? The Moonlight? Everything" ~Matt and Luisa

"I'm her father. And believe me it isn't easy." ~Bellomy

"Without my Griffin Theatre experiences, I would have never realized my true passion for theatre."

~Kevin McGrane '07

The show was presented with cabaret seating

Mr. Book and Mr. Neyer played key roles within the play: as two bickering fathers.

Now That's Funny

Griffin Theatre's Final Performance was One of the Best

"It's a pretty little picture." Hero (Tommy Adams) and Philia (Kristen Gauvain)

Pseudolus (Zach Fullenkamp) convinces Hysterium (Sean Book) "Your lovely, absolutely lovely."

"I have traveled the world in my search for beauty and have the finest assortment in Rome." Lycus (George Koors)

"A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" is a romp through Rome following the adventures of the slave Pseudolus as he tries to obtain his freedom, complicated by mistaken identities, soldiers, courtesans, chase scenes, music and laughter.

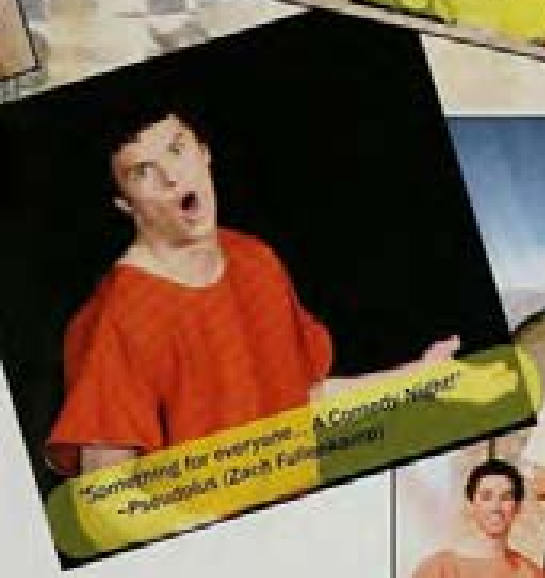

"My four years with Griffin Theatre helped shape me as a person. I especially enjoyed meeting all the challenges of this production."
~Zach Fullenkamp '07

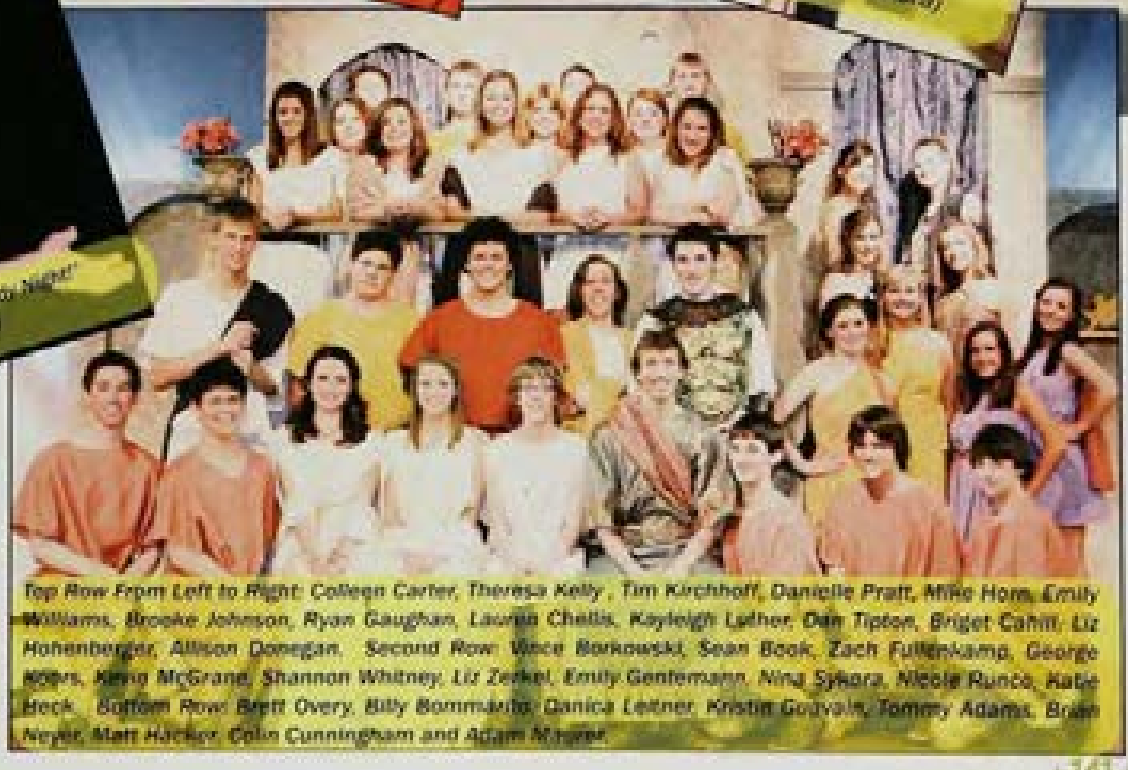

Pseudolus (Zach Fullenkamp) tells the courtesans "Actions professional attitudes."

"All I see is a sight to behold!"
~Pseudolus of Vibrata (Nina Sykora)

"Something for everyone... A Comedy Night!"

Nick Gier plays the ball to the front of the court.

"The decision the team made to support Ryan and A.J. at the varsity level was a big step up for most of the other varsity players compared to the positions they held last year. Without those players who stepped up to the challenge of playing at the varsity level, Ryan and A.J. would have never been able to play the level of competition they did. This also allowed the team to set up a great building block for next year."

Making History

Griffin Theatre Presents : The Lion in the Winter

The Lion In Winter takes place during the reign of Henry II-who must choose an heir to the throne among his three sons. Complicating matters is Phillip-King of France, his sister Alais and Henry's wife Eleanor.

"Handle me with iron gloves." Richard to Eleanor).

"We could tangle spiders in the webs you weave." Richard (to Eleanor)

"And what's the nothing Geoffrey (to Eleanor).

"What shall we hang, the holly or each other?" Henry (with Alais and family).

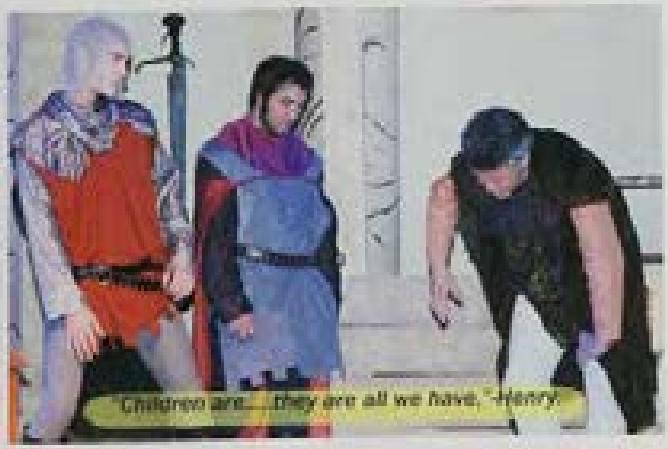

"Boy don't ever call a king a liar to his face." Henry.

"The challenge for the actor is to bring the historical figure to life. We need to understand each of these historical characters as living, breathing, human beings. History is about people, just like us, not just dates and timelines."
– Mr. Book

The Lion In Winter was the first Griffin Theatre production to take place over two weekends.

Fantastick!

Griffin Theatre Had a Rare Treat for Winter Theatre-goers.

"For the story is not ended- until we've all been burnished a bit- by the sun." -El Gallo.

"Get out of my garden." -Huckabee

The Fantasticks tells the story of two fathers who scheme to get their children together. But once the couple is united, the real drama begins!

"You mean it wasn't real? The Bandit? The Moonlight? Everything!" -Matt and Luisa

"I'm her father. And believe me it isn't easy." -Bellomy

"Without my Griffin Theatre experiences, I would have never realized my true passion for theatre."

~Kevin McGrane '07

The show was presented with cabaret seating

Mr. Book and Mr. Neyer played key roles within the play: as two bickering fathers.
