

APA 7th Edition

Acceptable Fonts and Sizes

Arial: 11; Calibri: 11; Computer Modern: 10; Georgia: 11; and Lucida San Unicode: 10; and

Times New Roman: 12

Everything is double-spaced, including the References page.

There are one-inch (1”) margins on all sides.

Use a single space after end punctuation (e.g., period, question mark, exclamation point).

Insert the page number in the top right-hand corner on each page, including the title page.

Title Page

The title page does not have the body of your paper on it.

Title is bold and centered about five lines down.

The first letter of each word in the title should be capitalized (except “a,” “an,” “and,” “as,” “at,” “but,” “by,” “for,” “if,” “nor,” “of,” “off,” “on,” “or,” “per,” “so,” “the,” “to,” “up,” “via,” “yet” unless the first word of a title, the first word after a colon, or the first word after end punctuation).

The following are not bolded, but still centered:

Two spaces down, enter your name, including your middle initial (e.g., Anne R. Stanley).

Two spaces down, enter the department name (e.g., Department of Psychology).

Two spaces down, enter course name and course title (e.g., PS101: Introduction to Psychology).

Two spaces down, enter the professor’s name (e.g., Dr. Wilson).

Two spaces down, enter the date (e.g., November 3, 2020).

See next page for an example.

Abstract

APA no longer requires abstracts for student papers.

Body of the Paper

Each paragraph is indented, and all of rest of the text is left justified.

Example:

Howard Stern was featured in the June 2019 issue of Rolling Stone, and the article portrayed him as down-to-earth.

Subheadings (Level 1)

The Level 1 heading (e.g., Method, Results, Conclusion) is bold and centered. The first letter of each word in the heading should be capitalized (except “a,” “an,” “and,” “as,” “at,” “but,” “by,” “for,” “if,” “nor,” “of,” “off,” “on,” “or,” “per,” “so,” “the,” “to,” “up,” “via,” “yet” unless the first word of a title, the first word after a colon, or the first word after end punctuation).

In-Text Citations

Direct Quotes (Exact words of author(s))

You will need to include the page number for direct quotes.

Example: “I have always believed that a writer has got to remain an outsider” (Wilson, 2020, p. 34).

Block Quotes

For direct quotes that are 40 words or more, you need to indent the quote five spaces from the left (still double-spaced), but you do not need quotation marks. The citation comes at the end of the “block” using the same format as above.

Example:

For direct quotes that are 40 words or more, you need to indent the quote five spaces from the left (still double-spaced), but you do not need quotation marks. The citation comes at the end of the “block” using the same format as above. (Wilson, 2020)

Paraphrasing (Summarizing/putting author's ideas in your own words)

Example: According to Wilson (2020), writers must always be outsiders (p. 34).

For citations with one author, you just need the author's last name, followed by a comma, and then the year. This all goes in parentheses with a period after the second parenthesis.

Example: (Wilson, 2020).

For citations with two authors, you just need each of the author's last names, separated by an ampersand (&), with the second author's name followed by a comma, and then the year. This is all in parentheses with a period after the second parenthesis.

Example: (Wilson & Johnson, 2020).

Citations with three or more authors are shortened to include just the first author's last name followed by a comma, and then "et al." followed by the year—all in parentheses with a period after the second parenthesis.

Example: (Wilson et al., 2020).

Narrative Citations (When the citation is within the text you are writing)

Examples:

Wilson (2020) emphatically states that, "I have always believed that a writer has got to remain an outsider" (p. 34).

According to Wilson (2020), writers must always be outsiders (p. 34).

References

The References page is an alphabetized list of materials that you have cited in your paper. It is placed after the body of the paper, where you will start a new page with "References" at the top in bold and centered.

See next page for an example.

Left justify the first line of each of your citations and then use a hanging indent for each of the ensuing lines.
