

GRIEVANCE POLICY AND PROCEDURES FOR MEMBERS OF THE SUPPORT STAFF

POLICY

The School recognises that from time to time members of staff may wish to seek redress for grievances relating to their employment. The School's policy is to ensure that grievances can be aired and, where possible, resolved quickly and to the satisfaction of all concerned.

PRINCIPLES

Grievances may be with another member of staff, with the Bursar, or with the Governors. They may be relatively minor or of fundamental importance. The following procedures should be adopted for resolving all grievances arising from employment, except where the complaint is of sexual, racial or disability harassment, when the School's separate harassment policy should be used.

A member of staff is entitled to be accompanied by a colleague, or a member of his or her trade union or professional association, or an official employed by a trade union at each stage of the procedure. The member of staff's colleague or representative is allowed to address the meeting to put and sum up the staff member's case, respond on behalf of the staff member to any views expressed at the meeting and confer with the staff member during the meeting. The colleague or representative does not, however, have the right to answer questions on the staff member's behalf, address the meeting if the staff member does not wish it or prevent the School from explaining their case.

There should be regular communication between the school and the individual against whom the grievance has been made throughout the Grievance process.

INFORMAL STAGE

Where a member of staff has a grievance with another member of staff, or with the Bursar, he or she should initially try to resolve that grievance promptly and directly with the other person, or through their Head of Department (HoD).

If a member of staff has a grievance with one or more of the Governors, he or she should raise the matter directly with the Staff Liaison Governor. The member of staff should always advise the Bursar before making such an approach.

The School wishes to encourage quick, informal resolution where possible; however, raising matters in this way, even with the member of staff's HoD, is not the same as formally invoking the Grievance Procedures. The reason why this distinction is important is that the member of staff's obligations/rights under the Grievance Procedures only arise when he/she makes a formal complaint under them. In particular, the member of staff will not have a right of appeal or any right to side-step any part of the Grievance Procedures purely by virtue of the fact that he/she has raised the same matter(s) informally in the past.

FORMAL STAGE – PROCEDURES

Where a member of staff has a grievance with another member of staff, or with the Bursar, or with one or more of the Governors, which has not been settled by means of informal resolution and he or she wishes to invoke a Grievance Procedure formally, the member of staff should follow the stages set out below. Each step and action under the Grievance Procedures will be taken without unreasonable delay.

The member of staff will be given at least 5 working days' notice of meetings arranged under the Grievance Procedures, which will be scheduled for mutually convenient times and at mutually convenient locations. The member of staff must take all reasonable steps to attend the meetings.

The Standard Procedure will apply to most cases, that is, when the member of staff is still within the employment of the School. If his/her employment with the School has ended, and the member of staff wishes to raise a matter about which they have not raised a grievance under the Standard Procedure, they may use the Special Procedure, as set out below. Neither procedure should be used in addition to, or in place of, an Appeal against any disciplinary sanctions imposed under the School's Disciplinary Procedures.

GRIEVANCE AGAINST ANOTHER MEMBER OF STAFF

Standard Procedure

Step 1 – Statement of grievance

The member of staff should set out his/her grievance in writing, stating what the basis for the grievance is and the remedy sought, and give it to the Bursar through the Personnel Manager.

Step 2 – Meeting

The Bursar will invite the member of staff to attend a meeting to discuss the grievance, having had a reasonable opportunity to consider the information provided in it. The member of staff may be asked for further information relating to his/her grievance in advance of the meeting to enable a proper discussion to take place. Every opportunity will be given for the grievance to be stated and thoroughly discussed. It may be necessary to undertake further investigation of the member of staff's grievance, in which case the meeting may be adjourned to enable this to take place, and reconvened within a reasonable period of time.

Following the meeting, the Bursar will aim to give a decision, in writing, within 7 working days: in addition, the member of staff will be advised of their right to appeal against the decision. The Bursar may consult with the Chairman of Governors, the Headmaster or representatives of the member of staff's trade union or professional association, or other members of staff, as appropriate, before reaching a decision.

Step 3 – Appeal

Should the member of staff be dissatisfied with the Bursar's decision, he or she may appeal by lodging a notice of appeal in writing to the Bursar. The formal notice of appeal should be lodged within 7 working days of receipt of the Bursar's decision, should explain the grounds for the appeal, and be accompanied by a copy of the member of staff's grievance and a copy of the written decision, together with all relevant supporting documents. The Bursar will then refer the appeal to the Headmaster for consideration and the Headmaster will inform the member of staff that the appeal has been received.

After there has been a reasonable opportunity to consider the information, the member of staff will be invited to attend an appeal meeting to discuss his/her grievance appeal. The member of staff may be asked for further information relating to his/her grievance appeal in advance of the meeting to enable a proper discussion to take place. Every opportunity will be given for the grievance appeal to be stated and thoroughly discussed. Where appropriate, further investigation may take place in which case the meeting may be adjourned to enable this to be undertaken, and reconvened within a reasonable period of time.

Following the meeting, the member of staff will receive the decision in writing of the Headmaster in response to the member of staff's grievance. The decision at this stage is final and there is no further appeal.
