It also time to remove Moyer from any decision making concerning our children's future. He has showed time and time again that he does not have the ability to plan and make decisions. Our kids have suffered enough!! Full time in person school "NOW" and no saliva test, another waste of tax payers money!!!

There's no reason to continue with the hybrid approach, with remote learning days on Wednesdays for York students. Please let the students get back to normalcy!

I am strongly opposed to saliva testing. This is a waste of money considering the marginal mitigation it provides. Will there be contact tracing following a positive test of the content of these unsterile vials? What will the data tell us? This is peddling a false sense of security. In addition, asking our children to 1/2 fill a vial the circumference of a pen cap with spit is gross and unsanitary. Spit will inevitably spill on surfaces, fingers and clothing. Aerosol droplets that we've been warned about will become airborne. We've been told by our officials to avoid singing in choirs or cheering for our sports teams so where is the logic in this testing.

Please do the right thing. The kids are depending on you. The science says it's safe, especially with new guidelines from the CDC that says vaccinated adults can be around low risk individuals WITHOUT masks.

There should be no reason these plans are not ready to go, as full reopening should have been the goal this entire year. Students cannot keep being told to "wait". They are struggling mentally and developing negative associations with school. The constant need for more time is unacceptable. Full return should not be an afterthought or a surprise. It is the consistent education, socialization and structure students need. It is our first priority as a school district to provide these things at all levels. I expect the return to in person to be immediately in place. Delays of 2-3 weeks with each decision only takes more away from the students. They have sacrificed enough already. Time to show up and show the students they matter!
