Dear Supporter --

Last year, Facing Addiction was launched when tens of thousands came together at the foot of the Washington Monument on the National Mall. Collectively, we ended the silence around addiction in America. Since then, leaders from across the addiction spectrum have worked tirelessly with us to craft the Facing Addiction Action Plan.

Today, I'm thrilled to roll out this Facing Addiction Action Plan. It provides a detailed road map for how we will continue the vitally important work of helping the 45 million Americans and their families directly impacted by addiction, as well as the tens of millions more who someday could or will be impacted.

The Facing Addiction Action Plan is about to be rolled out publicly – and I hope you can tune in on Facebook Live to watch. In approximately one hour, Facing Addiction will kick off an educational Caucus for Addiction Solutions, live from Cleveland at the Republican National Convention. Next Tuesday, we'll be hosting the same educational caucus at the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia. Again, if you wish to tune in to hear a sweeping discussion of the key issues of the day, please click here.

Today marks an exciting day for Facing Addiction, and for our movement as a whole.

We hope you can tune in to our event, and that you will take a look at our action plan to solving the addiction crisis in America.

Together, we will continue Facing Addiction.

Regards,

Michael King
National Director of Outreach & Engagement

P.S. This work requires tremendous effort on the parts of many people, as well as extensive communications with our many constituencies. Please consider making a contribution to Facing Addiction today. Thank you.
