Event Description:

- An introduction to the training and technical assistance provided through the Pennsylvania Autism Initiative (PAI).
- The purpose of the PAI is to enhance learning and communication to improve the lives of children who live with autism and their families through implementation of evidence-based practices.
- Opportunities to ask questions and to discuss ideas to assist with home practice in order to generalize skills learned at school to the home

Applied Behavior Analysis and Education:

- An introduction to the science of Applied Behavior Analysis, which is the science of studying behavior and applying data supported techniques to increasing or decreasing behaviors that are meaningful to the individual and their social environment.

A Glimpse into Instruction at School:

- A brief description of programming considerations, examples of intensive instruction and mand training, introduction to errorless teaching procedures.
