*What type of skills will you need when you are ready to enter the workforce?

All professions need people with good critical thinking, writing skills and a keen awareness of the social and political landscape for our country. You will need to be aware of how race, class, gender and sexuality share our life experiences and outcomes. This is important to solve problems and offer solutions.

*Tell me more about the Ethnic Studies Concurrent Enrollment class offered through the SLCSO and Salt Lake Community College

Ethnic Studies prepares students to enter a variety of fields after graduation. Careers such as law, social work, medicine, technology, human services, manufacturing, education – just to name a few, benefit from workers who understand how Ethnic Studies affects our world.
