

This past year has been one of the most challenging times in our lives; the stress, anxiety, and loneliness we have all faced would be unimaginable to our former selves. However, during this mentally taxing period, I feel the interests of the student body have not been fully met. In particular, the communication between our school administration and the students has been lacking, making people uneasy about what the future holds. As a Class Officer, I would be in a position to make adjustments according to whatever the students of our grade desire. I would endeavor to listen to people's opinions and strive to make alterations based on those viewpoints. Overall, I wish to be a Class Officer in order to shorten the divide between the student body and the administration, as well as make sure the interests of that student body are represented.
