I want to be a class officer because I believe I can help DHHS to be better, from the inside out. I'm very good at planning things, helping me plan and organize school events. I also have a lot of personal short and long term goals that I think being a class officer would support. My skills of organization, patience, and time management would benefit the class as well as the school as a whole. I've lived in Madison for my whole life and due to the small, tight-knit community, I'm familiar with nearly everyone in the grade. As I move towards graduation, I hope to expand my interests into clubs and volunteer opportunities. I want to be constantly improving and working on myself and my school. Becoming class officer would be the perfect place to start.
