Dr. Derald Wing Sue describes racial microaggressions as “brief and commonplace daily verbal, behavioral, or environmental indignities, whether intentional or unintentional, that communicate hostile, derogatory, or negative racial slights and insults toward people of color.”

As the WBLAS Equity Audit Report has highlighted, students of color experience school differently than their white counterparts. Students have shared their exhaustion and fatigue of everyday racism from racial microaggressions and microinvalidations.

This learning and professional development opportunity explores the impacts of racial microaggressions/invalidations on educational achievement for students of color.
