

Summer Reading 2021 Advanced Placement summer work

If you are enrolled in an Advanced Placement course at Linden Hall for the 2021-2022 school year, you may have additional summer reading or summer work to complete in preparation for that class. Summer assignments for AP classes may be intended to keep the practice in that subject area alive for students advancing to study at the college level, to provide a common experience for students entering the course, or to complete tasks that will allow the class to move forward at the start of the year to new material without becoming caught up in review work.

Please see below for the list of required reading assignments for several of our Advanced Placement classes. For Summer 2021, these books DO NOT count towards the Summer Reading Program.

Additionally, some AP classes have a different assignment that you will need to request or may have already received from the teacher. For your reassurance, we also list below AP classes that do not require any summer work.

Keep in mind that as scheduling progresses, you may encounter conflicts in your schedule that may result in an alternate course selection. You will be included in the conversation and asked to help prioritize choices. Therefore, summer work completed prior to your schedule being finalized may change.
