FAYS PROGRAM

We are still here!

Covid-19 has been a great challenge for all of us, including the communities that we serve. We are reaching out to all our collaborating agencies to provide information on some of the changes to our FAYS, Families and Youth Success Program (formally known as STAR program).

We are committed to keeping home environments safe for children and youth during these challenging times, while helping families cope with daily stressors. Therefore, we continue to provide our services virtually and by phone. This has allowed us to stay connected with our clients and help them navigate challenges brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic.

The FAYS program is a short term program for children and youth ages 0-17 who are experiencing significant family conflict including, school problems, sibling violence, runaway behavior and juvenile delinquency. All services are bilingual and free of charge. FAYS services include:

- Case Management Services
- Skills Based Training for Youth and Parents
- Parent Advocacy Training
- Crisis Intervention
- Basic Needs and Financial Assistance
- Other Family Support Services

We continue to be devoted to restoring and healing individuals and families. Please call us if you have any questions or need assistance with a referral.
