The term does not apply to children who are socially maladjusted, unless it is determined that they have an emotional disturbance under paragraph (b)(5)(i) of this section. (6) Hearing impairment means impairment in hearing, whether permanent or fluctuating, that adversely affects a child's educational performance but that is not included under the definition of deafness in this section. (7) Intellectual disability means significantly subaverage general intellectual functioning that adversely affects a child's educational performance existing concurrently with deficits in adaptive behavior and manifested during the developmental period. (8) Multiple disabilities means two or more disabilities occurring together (such as intellectual disability-blindness, intellectual disability-orthopedic impairment, etc.), the combination of which causes such severe educational needs that they cannot be accommodated in special education programs solely for one of the impairments. Multiple disabilities do not include deaf-blindness. (9) Orthopedic impairment means a severe physical impairment that adversely affects a child's educational performance. Means a disorder in one or more of the basic psychological processes involved in understanding or in using language, spoken or written, that may manifest itself in the impaired ability to listen, think, speak, read, write, spell, or to do mathematical calculations, including conditions such as perceptual disabilities, brain injury, minimal brain dysfunction, dyslexia, and developmental aphasia. (ii) Disorders not included. Specific learning disability does not include learning problems that are primarily the result of visual, hearing, or motor disabilities, of mental retardation, of serious emotional disturbance, or of environmental, cultural, or economic disadvantage. (12) Speech or language impairment means- (i) A communication disorder, such as an impairment in fluency, articulation, language, or voice/resonance that adversely affects a child's educational performance. (ii) Language may include function of language (pragmatic), the content of language (semantic), and the form of language (phonologic, morphologic, and syntactic systems). (iii) A speech or language impairment may result in a primary disability or it may be secondary to other disabilities. (13) Traumatic brain injury means an acquired injury to the brain caused by an external physical force, resulting in total or partial functional disability or psychosocial impairment, or both, that adversely affects a child's educational performance. Traumatic brain injury applies to open or closed head injuries resulting in impairments in one or more areas, such as cognition; language; memory; attention; reasoning; abstract thinking; judgment; problem-solving; sensory, perceptual, and motor abilities; psychosocial behavior; physical functions; information processing; and speech. Traumatic brain injury does not apply to brain injuries that are congenital or degenerative, or to brain injuries induced by birth trauma.	The medical diagnosis requirement for Other Health Impairment (OHI) eligibility consideration must be completed by a physician or other health care professionals practicing within the confines of their licenses e.g. family nurse practitioner, physician's assistant. Examples of those not qualified to provide a diagnosis include a licensed clinical social worker and clinical/school psychologist. IEP Teams are reminded that a medical or psychological diagnosis does not automatically equate to eligibility for special education. The medical or psychological diagnosis is one piece of information the IEP Team must consider when making the eligibility determination. For example, a student may be diagnosed with dyslexia, which is identified as a specific learning disability under IDEA. This information is very important for the IEP Team to consider along with all of the other information known about the student when determining if he/she meets all three prongs of eligibility (disability/adverse effect/in need of special education) for special education. A question to ask may be, "How is the specific learning disability impacting educational performance?"

respect to the initial placement of a student with a disability in a special education program. Eligibility of children must be determined by using multiple sources of data and must not be dependent upon single test scores. Evaluation procedures may include, but are not limited to, observations, interviews, behavior checklists, structured interactions, play assessment, adaptive and developmental scales, criterion-referenced and norm referenced instruments, clinical judgment, and tests of basic concepts or other techniques and procedures as deemed appropriate by the professional(s) conducting the evaluations. (b) Definitions of evaluations and screenings. Evaluations and screenings for determining eligibility for special educational services are defined as follows: (1) Adaptive Behavior Evaluation The adaptive behavior evaluation refers primarily to the effectiveness with which the individual generally meets the standards of personal independence and social responsibility expected of his/her age and cultural group. It has two major facets: (i) the extent to which the individual is able to function independently; and (ii) the extent to which he/she satisfactorily meets the culturally imposed demands of personal and social responsibility. Evaluations of adaptive behavior look at the total environment of the child. Adaptive behavior information shall be obtained from two sources, one of which must be the child's parent, as defined by NC 1500-2.23, unless attempts to gather parental input are not successful. Unsuccessful attempts to obtain adaptive behavior input from the parent must be documented. An adaptive behavior evaluation may be included as part of the psychological evaluation, and for preschool children, it also may be part of the educational evaluation. It must be conducted by professional personnel who are trained in the assessment of adaptive behavior and in the interpretation of the assessment results. (2) Audiological Evaluation An audiological evaluation is an examination by a licensed audiologist to determine auditory acuity, auditory perception, and amplification needs. Whenever possible, the evaluation shall include air conduction testing, bone conduction testing, acoustic immittance measures (e.g. tympanometry), speech reception, discrimination and/or perception testing with amplification and without amplification. When behavioral audiometric testing is not feasible or is unreliable, auditory brain stem responses and/or otacoustic emissions are to be used. (3) Braille Skills Inventory/Learning Media Assessment The inventory/assessment is an appraisal of the child's most efficient reading	Keep all documentation of reasonable attempts to collect information from the parent in the EC record of the student as this is subject to monitoring. If the parent does not provide the information after reasonable attempts have been made, a second individual who has knowledge of the child could complete the information. IEP teams are encouraged to always consider multiple sources of information prior to making an eligibility determination.

Items to be considered may include, but are not limited to, noting the working distance from the page, reading rates and accuracy, visual fatigue, and tactile discrimination. (4) Functional Vision Assessment A functional vision assessment is an assessment conducted by a licensed teacher of children with visual impairments, or other qualified personnel, which provides information on how a student uses vision in familiar and unfamiliar educational and functional settings. It is intended to inform about the impact of a vision condition on a student's learning. (5) Educational Evaluation An educational evaluation is an evaluation of a child's educational functioning in relation to his/her current educational program. The results of this evaluation are expressed in terms of both the child's academic and/or developmental strengths and needs. This evaluation must be comprehensive, using a full range of available instruments and observations, including diagnostic tests and other appropriate formal and informal measures, such as curriculum based measurement. An educational evaluation must be conducted by a licensed teacher or other appropriate professional, unless additional restrictions are defined by the authors of the evaluation instrument, and should measure the child's progress in learning and skill acquisition. If educational strengths and needs have been addressed and reported as part of other required evaluations (e.g. psychological evaluation), then no further educational evaluation is needed. (6) Health Screening Health screening may include, but is not necessarily limited to, as many of the following areas as may be appropriate: vision screening, hearing screening, dental screening, and review of health history, review of developmental milestones, assessment of physical growth and assessment of nutritional status. Health screening may be performed by a school nurse or other appropriately trained persons. (7) Medical Evaluation Evaluations in this area must be conducted by appropriately trained and/or licensed health professionals. (8) Motor Screening Motor screening includes reviewing written and verbal information, observing the child in a variety of settings and/or administering screening instruments to determine adequacy of motoric functioning and need for further evaluation. Persons who may screen motor skills are psychologists, specially trained teachers of children with disabilities including adapted physical education	An LEA is ultimately responsible for medical services needed to determine eligibility under IDEA

teachers, occupational therapists, physical therapists, and other health professionals. (9) Motor Evaluation A motor evaluation obtains and provides information to assess a student's current level of motoric functioning and any problems encountered in performing motor tasks. This information may be collected through review of educational and medical records; interviews with teachers, parents, and others, including the student; clinical observations; and the administration of formal testing instruments, procedures, and techniques. A motor evaluation should include, but is not limited to, as many of the areas listed below as may be appropriate: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (i) musculo-skeletal status; (ii) neuromotor/neurodevelopmental status; (iii) gross-motor development and coordination; (iv) fine-motor development and coordination; (v) sensory-motor skills; (vi) visual-motor skills; (vii) bilateral coordination; (viii) postural control and balance skills; (ix) praxis/motor planning skills; (x) oral-motor skills; and (xi) gait and functional mobility skills. Motor evaluations are performed by physical therapists or occupational therapists or, when appropriate, adapted physical education teachers. Oral-motor skills may be assessed by speech-language pathologists when appropriate. (10) Observation Observations of school aged children usually occur in the regular classroom and/or settings related to the area(s) of concern and must document areas of strength as well as areas of need. Observations of school aged children shall assess academic skills and functional skills, which includes behavior. Observations of preschool children should occur in the natural environment; that is, the setting within the community where preschool children without disabilities usually are found (home, child care, preschool classes, Head Start, etc.) and must document areas of strength and areas which are the focus of concern. Observational data on preschool children may include interactions with persons and objects, and compliance with structure, taking into consideration age-appropriate expectations. Observations may be conducted by a teacher (who is not the teacher of the child), social worker, program coordinator, school

The evaluation should include an assessment of cognitive functioning and may also include, but not be limited to, assessments of educational performance, social/emotional/behavioral functioning, and adaptive behavior. Procedures used by the psychologist may include formal and informal assessment measures, observations, interviews, and other techniques as deemed appropriate by the psychologist. The assessment of cognition may include intelligence, memory, reasoning, problem solving, attending, and processing. Where these instruments are clearly inappropriate as standardized, the psychologist should use his/her professional judgment about the selection of instruments for assessing the intellectual functioning of children. Psychological evaluations shall be performed by DPI or Board licensed psychologists. School psychologists employed by the public schools must be licensed by the State Department of Public Instruction. Psychologists contracting with schools on a private basis must be licensed as psychological associates or practicing psychologists by the North Carolina Psychology Board. When contracting with state agencies for psychological services, the local education agency's contract must be with the agency and not with the individual psychologist. (14) Social/Developmental History A social history documents normal and abnormal developmental and/or medical events and includes a review of information gathered during the screening process. For preschool children, a social history must include an assessment of family composition, support systems, stressors, and environment as they correlate with the child's need or special services. The history also must include the family's or caregiver's perspective about the child and the need for special services. The history may be obtained by a licensed social worker, special educator, psychologist, counselor, nurse, teacher or other appropriate persons. (15) Speech-Language Screening Speech-language screening quickly and reliably provides information in the

A screening of areas not addressed in depth, including: hearing, articulation, language, voice, and fluency should be completed during every evaluation. A variety of assessment tools and strategies to gather relevant functional, developmental, and academic information should be used. Assessment instruments may include interviews; curriculum-based, authentic, dynamic assessment tools; norm referenced or criterion referenced tests. For a student to be considered for intervention, the student's speech, language, voice, or fluency must be determined to have a negative impact on academic achievement and functional performance. A speech-language evaluation is conducted by a speech-language pathologist licensed by the State Department of Public Instruction and/or licensed by the State of North Carolina. (17) Vocational Evaluation Vocational evaluation is a process involving an interdisciplinary team approach in assessing an individual's vocational potential, training and work placement needs (Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1414—(c); 34 CFR 300.15)	A vocational evaluation is a documented process, not a test, and involves an interdisciplinary team. It is good practice for any drafts that are shared with school personnel prior to the meeting to be provided the parent also, giving the parent as well as school officials adequate time to consider the ideas presented. These documents should be clearly marked "draft" and are subject to change during the IEP process. Each component of the IEP must be discussed by the team at the IEP meeting. There are times that an IEP goal or objective (e.g. improving written communication) should have more than one discipline providing services and supports that help the student achieve that goal. Having two or more disciplines working on one appropriate goal fosters collaboration and eliminates writing unnecessary goals just to make them look discipline specific. An integrated goal has one or more of the goals and objectives collaboratively developed and monitored by two or more service providers such as teacher(s), occupational therapist, physical therapist, or speech language pathologist. Intervention services and supports provided by each of these individuals to assist the student in achieving IEP goals would be discipline specific. The description of how progress on the goal will be measured should reflect progress monitoring conducted by each individual from his/her perspective. Progress in the general curriculum, as evidenced in the North Carolina Standard Course of Study (SCS), must also be addressed. IEP goals must be directly aligned with SCS grade-level standards in assessed areas (currently Language Arts, Math, Writing, and Science). For these students the Extended Content Standards have been developed and should be considered. The Extended Content Standards are linked to the general grade-level content standards but differ significantly from them in depth and breadth. Information on the Extended Content Standards is available at http://www.ncpublicschools.org/ec/instructional/extended/. IEPs must address both academic progress and functional performance in the development of goals and objectives. Many disability areas have developed curricular resources to address the variety of needs students have. IEP Teams may consider these resources in addition to the general curriculum when developing annual goals and objectives. For example, professionals in the field of visual impairments have the Expanded Core Curriculum as a part of the National Agenda for the Education of Children and Youths with Visual Impairments, Including Those with Multiple Disabilities (http://www.tsbvi.edu/agenda/index.htm), which addresses various areas such as communication modes, social interaction, independent living, career education and technology. IEP Teams are reminded that instructional accommodations are not limited to only those approved testing accommodations. The IEP Team should engage in meaningful dialogue, based on some data about the student, regarding the necessary instructional accommodations as well as those approved testing accommodations. The IEP Team must engage in a discussion of necessary supplementary aids and program modifications services that allow the student the opportunity to be served in the least restrictive environment. This discussion may involve assistance required for the student to access the general curriculum and make progress toward IEP goals, and should not be based on the assignment of assistants. The LEA is required to provide the supplementary aids or service, and supports determined necessary by the IEP Team. The student may be in need of Individualized assistance as determined by the IEP Team. It is the LEAs responsibility to provide the necessary personnel to implement the IEP. It is critical that the LEA representative be knowledgeable of the available resources of the system as well as have the authority to commit agency resources and ensure that whatever services are described in the IEP

LEAs should consider how and where to document this agreement between LEA and parent. Because federal language clearly allows local school personnel to initiate an addendum without a meeting, LEAs are advised to develop a procedure for who can initiate an addendum and under what circumstances addendums without IEP meetings can be completed. It is recommended that any school personnel who are responsible for the implementation of an IEP receive a copy of the IEP and any related amendments in a timely fashion during the life of the IEP. Training and understanding regarding the confidentiality of this document is necessary. Within amendments to the IEP, there are instances when prior written notice (proposing to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or refusing to do the actions stated above) must be provided to the parent. Do not forget to complete all required paperwork. The issuance of prior written notice signifies the final action or end of a process. Interagency collaboration in transition planning is essential for some students as it relates to post-secondary transition. LEAs should document agency involvement. If an agency doesn't follow through with its agreement of services on the IEP, it is the LEA's responsibility to reconvene the IEP Team and determine alternative strategies to accomplish the activity. Mechanisms for Monitoring: Review of IEP Documentation; Prior Written Notice; Complaint Process; Monitoring Checklist

The IEP shall address all the required components as delineated in Section .1507 C(1-12). (2) Funds are designated as add-on funds. They are to be used to make the "critical difference" in the successful development and implementation of the IEP. These funds may not be used to supplant or replace other funding sources (e.g., state aid exceptional children funds). They are to be used only to provide services to children with disabilities and accompanying chronic and acute behavioral/emotional needs including students previously served by Department of Health and Human Services as Willie M class members. Requests for funds are evaluated according to the following criteria. (i) Prioritization will be given to: innovative and creative grant proposals that are designed to make the critical difference to ensure successful IEP implementation and positions and services previously funded through state aid to local administrative units (PRC 29) that have been effective in providing behavioral support services essential to enhance educational performance of children with disabilities and accompanying chronic and acute behavioral/emotional needs. The child count(s) will be done by the local education agency where the community residential center is located. Funding for special education and related services in the community residential center will be approved only after the IEP Team in the local education agency where the community residential center is located has determined that the least restrictive environment is the community residential center. If it is determined that the least restrictive environment is the local education agency, the community residential center will be ineligible for educational funding. (b) The local education agency may request the per child allocation for one year for any child served in the community residential school program prior to entering the local education agency. These funds are allocated only when funds are available. (c) Transportation for all children served in the local education agency residing in a community residential center shall be borne by the local education agency. (d) The rate of funds per child shall be determined by the Exceptional Children Division. The rate of funds will be allocated at a per child rate determined annually by the Exceptional Children Division and School Financial Services. Special Community Residential Center funds are based on the actual months of service up to 180 school days and may include extended school year when it is deemed appropriate by the IEP Team and written into the child's IEP. Funds shall be used to provide for educational and related services, including personnel, supplies, materials and educational equipment. (e) The amount of funds allocated to the community residential centers per child and per month will be based on a recommendation to the Associate Superintendent for Financial Services by the Director of the Exceptional Children Division. (f) The local education agency where the community residential center is located shall certify to the State Board of Education that the educational placement has been approved by the IEP Team. (g) The residential placement in a community residential center must be approved by the community residential center and IEP team before a special education placement can be considered.	NC 1506-1.6 Community residential centers.

Level of Service/Supports

Level of Services/Supports

² Special Education Targeted Skills - Services/supports provided to students who require specific instruction in targeted skills areas (to include but not limited to: reading, math, written expression, social skills) outside the general education classroom from 21% - 60% of the day. Special targeted skills groups can range from 1-14 students with consideration given to any specific guidelines governing group size composition for any methodologies adopted by the LEA.

⁵ Future-Ready Core Course of Study – The Standard Course of Study (College/University, College Tech Prep, Career Prep) will become the Future-Ready Core Course of Study, effective with the 9th grade class of 2009-2010.
