How To Make a Texture Pack

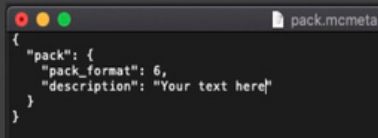

1. Make a folder

This is where everything your pack has will go. Make sure you name the folder whatever you want the pack's name to be.

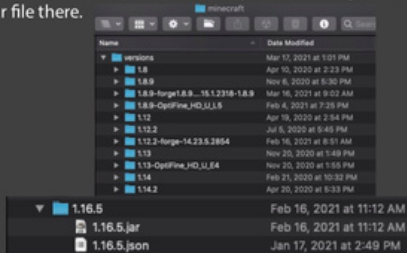

3. Make some code in that file

You don't have to be a coder to make this, you can just copy what it should look like. The contents of the pack.mcmeta file have changed over the years so look up what yours should look like. For example, my 1.16 pack looks like this:

5. Find the Minecraft version you're working with

Navigate to your .minecraft folder and find the one labeled "versions." From here, find the folder with the version you're working with and copy the .jar file there.

7. Now finally begin to change some textures!

This is the fun part. The assets folder has every texture in Minecraft, all you have to do is edit them with a software like Photoshop or MS Paint.

Examples of what I did to the sun and moon in my texture pack

9. Time to see if it works!

Now launch Minecraft, enable your texture pack, and have fun exploring the world of making texture packs!

2. Make a .mcmeta text file

Name this file "pack.mcmeta."

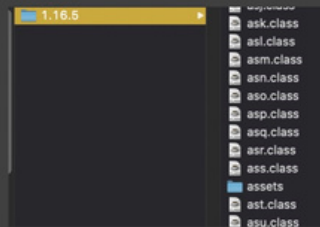

4. Install some software that can extract zip files.

I recommend winrar for windows and keka for mac.

6. Use the extractor software to extract the .jar file

Extract the version file with the software you downloaded, and search for a folder called "assets" in the extraction.

8. Finish up the process by putting everything in one place

Put the edited assets folder in your resource pack folder, along with the .mcmeta file. When you're all done put the entire folder in the resource pack folder, which is in the .minecraft folder.

To get you started here's some tips:

Every file in the assets folder doesn't need to be there, but the edited ones have to have the same file paths and same names as the original ones, so think of the assets folder as a template for your pack.

There's more than just textures that can be changed. With a little work you can change the sounds and text of the game too!

To change the thumbnail of your pack, make a .png file named "pack" that is a 128pixel x 128pixel image. Then put it in your pack's folder
