Dear MNSD Staff and Families,

I am extremely pleased to introduce Mr. Jonathan Regino as the newly hired Supervisor of Teaching & Learning for Mathematics.

Mr. Regino was selected from a number of highly qualified candidates. He is an energetic and dynamic educator with a background of practical experiences in education. Presently, he is the Teaching & Learning Specialist at Delaware County Intermediate Unit (DCIU). He earned his Masters of Science in Online Teaching from Wilkes University and recently achieved a Certificate of Leadership as a School Principal.

As an experienced, hands-on educator for the past fifteen years, Mr. Regino began his educational career in 2006 as a Middle School Math and Science Teacher in the Twin Valley School District. As a Teaching & Learning Specialist at DCIU, he has served the county school systems by providing professional development, curriculum writing and audits, coaching in the Pennsylvania State Initiatives of Math, Multi-Tiered System of Supports (MTSS), Assistive Technology, and STEM.

During his tenure as a Teaching & Learning Specialist at the DCIU, he has spent the past year working with our High School Administrative team and guidance counselors on the STEM initiatives. He has provided a deep understanding for the vision and mission for the district's STEM Academy. Mr. Regino is very experienced in designing systems to ensure selection and adoption of highly appropriate instructional materials for diverse learners. He has been instrumental in the development of community partnerships and networks to develop and maintain instructional opportunities for students and educators.

Again, please welcome Mr. Jonathan Regino to the MNSD Community. Mr. Regino will be joining the MNSD Leadership Team on July 1. We are confident that he will work very well with our MNSD Leadership Team to benefit our students, staff, and community.

Sincerely,
Tina M. Kane, Ed.D.
