

My Favorite Toy

MEETS 7th

Everyone has or had a favorite toy. Ever since I was little, I have enjoyed riding the skate board. I always have and hopefully always will. Now I skate pretty good, I can go down some pretty high hills. A skate board might be dangerous, but that's not going to stop me from skating.

When I was little, I would always ask where the skate board, or do you have a skate board. I love the sport. I don't exactly know why I like it so much. Maybe it's the adrenaline I get going down hills, or maybe just plain enjoyment of it. I do know that to me skating is the most amazing thing ever.

When I was little, I would be afraid to go down the hill on tenth street. Now I skate down those hills like a boss. Basically, hills are easy to ride down. As long as you don't run into a car, that hurts. You might be thinking hey a skate board is not a toy. Although that could be argued, because it is to me. To me riding my skate board, is like playing with a toy. So I play with a skate board at least once a day. Skating is just fun to me.

So skate boards are definitely my favorite toy. This favorite toy has made me decide I want to be a pro skater. So I can skate like a boss. Skating is definitely my sport, and the skate board is definitely my favorite toy.
