

Last year my Dad and I went to the Boatnik. The first ride I went on was the Drop Zone. The Drop Zone is a giant pole that's about eighty-five feet tall and ten feet wide. You sit on a seat. The seats take you up and then drop at about one hundred mph.

The next ride I went on wasn't really a ride, but a haunted house.

After that I went on a ride called the Alley Bob. I don't know anything about it. All I know is that it almost made my puke.

The ride after that was the Tornado. The Tornado is a ride where you sit on a seat that's connected to a spinner. The middle of the ride spins and swing everyone around. When you spin the spinner it spins you around where you sit. My sister's friend took my sister to the Boatnik too. When my sister, my sister's friend, and some other dude got on the ride with me, my sister felt like she was about to puke, so we couldn't spin the spinner.

After that I went on a giant slide called Goliath the Giant Slide.

Then I went on the Caterpillar. The Caterpillar is a roller coaster. The roller coaster is shaped as a giant caterpillar.

I didn't feel well after going on all of these rides, so I took a break.

After that I went on the last ride of the day, the fair's wheel. This time Dad went on the fair's wheel with me. While we were on the fair's wheel, my Dad took a picture of the Drop Zone to show Mom how big it was. After that it was time to go home. That was one of the happiest experiences of my life.
