

Moore Norman Technology Center Higher Education Emergency Relief Funds The American Rescue Plan (HEERF III Funds)

The Higher Education Emergency Relief Funds; The American Relief funds (HEERF III Funds) provides funds to Moore Norman Technology Center for financial aid grants to students for the cost of attendance expenses related to the disruption of campus operations due to coronavirus (such as food, housing, course materials, technology, health care, and child-care).

Moore Norman Technology Center was allocated $781,514 under HEERF III Funds.

- Moore Norman Technology Center was allocated $781,514 for emergency financial aid for eligible post-secondary students. The grants are intended to help students cover costs they have experienced as a result due to the pandemic. This funding will be allocated through one distribution including broad distribution and emergency grants.

Student Emergency Financial Aid Grants

As of July 9, 2021, Moore Norman Technology Center has awarded $784,058 to 282 eligible students. An estimated total of 723 students were enrolled in a career training program on August 18, 2020. Of these students, 71 students had completed a FAFSA and demonstrated Title IV eligibility under Section 484 of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

To determine which students were eligible for the Student Emergency Financial Aid Grant, the institution reviewed every post-secondary student enrolled at Moore Norman Technology Center on August 18, 2020, at the time MNTC of the Fall 2020 semester and the students that remained enrolled through the first 9 weeks (October 20, 2020) of the fall 2020 semester. If the student had completed the program during the 2020/2021 academic year we authorized payment of the HEERF III Funds.

All Pell eligible students (71) were paid a $1955 grant, 211 students that had not received financial aid nor a previous payment during the academic year were (211 students) paid $913 (this was the amount the non-financial aid students received previously). All financial aid students received an additional $1605 HEERF III Funds payments (282 students). This is a total of $784,058 which is $2544 over the allocation of the portion for students that will come from the school's portion.
